Cromwell and Mussolini
Good-by, Bob
He Won't Talk
17,000 Laws

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW compares Mussolini to the great Oliver Cromwell and says British mockery of Mussolini is inspired by hypocrisy and fear.

The British, according to Shaw, "did not dare laugh at Mussolini's bluff at Corfu, because they were really afraid of him."

Mussolini is like Cromwell there is reason to be afraid of him Cromwell being the only soldier of semi-modern times that never lost a battle.

The kissing habit is going out. Those that have plenty of money abandon the bob because it is getting too common. Workgirls with bobs haven't much money give the bob because it costs too much. They have too much time.

WOMEN ought to wear both hair and skirts short, without being foolish about either, and will do so eventually. They ought to cut their skirts to below the knee, not above; cut their hair sensibly, so that a haircut might last a month at least, with no ribbon or old-fashioned round comb to hold it back. That's how women will arrange hair and skirts some day, and then will look pretty and sensible.

SENATOR BORAH says we make too many laws. This country will be a republic in name but a bureaucracy in fact" if we don't check the wholesale law-making machine.

Not all the laws are made in Washington. Forty-eight legislatures are busy. The total new laws suggested here and there number about 17,000, a fantastic figure.

However, civilization itself, to say nothing of this glorious republic, is an experiment, in its infancy. Children learn many things; all trying is useful even if they burn their fingers, that's best. It teaches them to avoid fire.

EACH law is an experiment, an effort to remedy something wrong or establish something good. Once men were hanged by law, not by lynching, for stealing a horse. Now they steal automobiles, and hanging for horse stealers automatically disappears. Not foolish things we plan, but what we actually do, counts.

FIREMEN AND POLICE TO GET $12.50 RAISE

Increase Will Make Monthly Salary $152.50; Captains To Get $162.50

PAYROLL JUMPS $6,600

Safety Director Given Increase from $600 to $1,200; Effective March 1

Salary increases totalling $6,600 annually were authorized in Marion's Department of Public Safety in legislation adopted by City Council at its meeting last night.

The salary of the director of public safety was raised from $600 a year to $1,200, 27 men of the fire department were granted increases totalling $4,050 and 13 policemen received a boost of $1,950. The new salary schedule will go into effect on March 1.

The ordinances adopted last night, amending salary legislation enacted on Nov. 20, 1919, grants a uniform increase of $12.50 monthly to men in both departments, including 20 firemen, six captains and one mechanic in the fire department and one captain and 12 patrolmen in the police service.

New Scale

Under the new scale, captains will receive $162.50 a month and patrolmen and firemen $152.50.

The $152.50 is to be paid after men have been in the city's service 18 months. Newly-enlisted men will be paid $137.50 for the first six months of service, $142.50 for the second six months and $147.50 for the third six months, after which they will receive the maximum of $152.50.

The fire department mechanic is to be paid $162.50, the same as the captains.

Abandon Plans

Plans for establishing the office of lieutenant of police, which had been under consideration in connection with the salary increases, were finally abandoned by council. It had been intended to create this position in order that a substitute might be available should the captain be absent from duty, the plan being to pay the lieutenant a monthly salary $2.50 higher than the pay of patrolmen. Members of council decided, however, that appointment of a lieutenant is unnecessary at this time and that a patrolman can be assigned to act as captain whenever that officer happens to be off duty.

Reason For Increase

Members of council explained that the salary of the director of public safety was doubled because of the additional work that is now performed by that official as executive head of City Hospital. The hospital management takes up a large part of the director's time, it was stated, and entitles him to larger compensation.

Under the supervision of W. B. Strayer, the present director of public safety, the hospital has been placed on a self-sustaining basis, reports show.

The salary increase ordinances did not include chiefs of the fire and police department, who are paid $225 a month. It also omitted the two desk sergeants in the police service. There is possibility, it was stated last night, that legislation will be enacted later to place the pay of the sergeants on the same basis as he remainder of the department.

Miss McGursion displayed a number of the alleged epistles of love which she stated the musician wrote to her during a courtship of one and a half years.

Law Changes Suggested By Ohio Pastors' Committee For Betterment of Home

Would Make Rolling Pin Symbol of Peace; Uniform Divorce Law Called Most Immediate Need; Have Ideas for New Marriage Regulations

Columbus, Jan. 25—Make the rolling pin a symbol of domestic peace, instead of war, is the suggestion offered here today at the second day session of the Ohio Pastors' Convention, by the committee on moral welfare in the home.

"One of the most immediate needs of the home," the committee's report declared, "is for a uniform national divorce law. Probate judges in border counties find the law meaningless if there is a more liberal law across the state line.

Would Change Marriage Plan

"Despite the current report that there is one divorce for every four marriages in Ohio, Ohio laws are above the average, though we suggest the publishing of applications for license some days before the license is granted; some days delay between the issuing of the license and the solemnizing of marriage; a copy of the probate court's information to be attached to the license; documentary proof of age; abolition of justice of the peace court marriages, and the requirement of a certificate of health.

"Extremes of poverty and of wealth stimulate immorality, handicap childhood and break up families. Poor and crowded housing conditions, many boarders, lack of privacy and undernourishment lead to sin and disease. At the other extreme, luxurious living invites license; and sinful indulgence blasts many a home. In either case the next generation suffers.

Might Study Together

"We propose that engaged couples might vary the monotony of nights spent in petting by studying together how to make a budget, live within one income, be honest and thrifty.

"Wholesale denunciation of the dance offers no solution of the problem. Certain types of dancing should be condemned. Whenever the commercial motive enters, perils arise. Supervision is vital. So with the movies and the theater. Always commercialized amusement must be checked up by the sensitized, Christianized conscience of the community. Whether the motion pic-

TREASURY MAY AGREE TO $368,000,000 TAX CUT

Democratic Leaders Plan To Outdo Department Before Next Election

Washington, Jan. 25—An analysis of government financial estimates for 1928 disclosed today that the treasury probably will agree to a tax slash of more than $350,000,000 when the new congress meets.

Treasury experts declared that the estimate of $200,700,000 surplus for June 30, 1928, upon which depends, to a great extent, the tax reduction, has been under-figured by at least $175,000,000 provided business conditions remain substantially as they are.

Democratic leaders, it was learned, plan to "go the treasury at least $200,000,000 better" in any tax reduction measure which may be presented, in order to politically counteract the reaction of a Republican tax slash just before the presidential election.

Where the treasury estimates the 1927 surplus at $383,000,000 and that of the subsequent year at $200,700,000, Democratic financial experts in congress maintain that this year's figure will exceed $500,000,000, with receipts over expenditures by only slightly less in 1928.

Officially, Secretary Mellon holds that no consideration of a tax reduction can be made until the 1926 revenue act has been studied longer to determine its revenue producing ability. Thus far the law has produced more revenue in spite of lower rates.

SURVEY SHOWS COUNCIL FAVORS PAVING WORK

Practically All Members Agree W. Center-St Should Be Improved

Prospects for the repaving of W. Center-st this year increased today when an inquiry made among members of City Council revealed that practically all are strongly in favor of going ahead with the improvement if the financing can possibly be arranged without conflicting seriously with the city's economy program.

A difference of opinion regarding possibility of having the paving done this year prevails in the council members, although all agree that the improvement is badly needed and should be included in the 1928 program if ways and means can be worked out.

Williams Views

Councilman J. H. Williams states that he is firmly of the belief that the project can be put through this year and is in favor of going ahead with preliminary plans. A similar expression came from Ralph D. Good, another council member.

R. E. Prettyman, chairman of the finance committee, is not so optimistic. In fact, he states that he does not believe the financing can be arranged for this year and that the improvement will have to be held over until 1928.

The views of Charles Schmidt, councilman from the Fourth ward, coincide with Prettyman's.

Both Prettyman and Schmidt, however, state that Council has never definitely decided against authorizing the improvement for this year and that it is open to further consideration.

Survey Seen

These four councilmen indicated today that City Engineer T. S. Cathers would be requested to make a survey of the proposed improvement and submit estimates on the probable cost. With this information available, it is stated, council will be able to arrive at a definite decision. Mr. Williams states that he has made some investigation and is of the opinion that the city's share of the cost would not exceed $30,000.

In the meantime the West Center Street Improvement Association, an organization of business men and property owners recently formed, is arranging to send representatives before council in the near future to advocate placing the paving project on this year's program.

Recently officers of the association suggested that in case financial limita-

Steamship Thrown on Reef Near Spanish Village

Gijon, Spain, Jan. 25—Fourteen sailors were drowned and five rescued when the steamship Retnerto was thrown on a reef near the village of San Esteban Depravia, during a violent storm.

The steamship lost its rudder and broke in half when she struck the reef. Observers on shore were unable to send relief to those clinging aboard the wreckage for several hours due to the fury of the seas. When it was finally possible to send a lifeboat out, there were but five of the crew of the ship still alive.

Opposition in the French parliament was so strong that a delay was decided upon rather than jeopardize the agreement by calling for a vote now, it was said.

"Peaches" Browning Weeps As She Relates Story of Honeymoon on Trial Stand

Youthful Divorce Suit Defendant Is Excused from Witness Chair for Time To Regain Self When Complete Breakdown Is Suffered

Courthouse, White Plain, N. Y., Jan. 25—"Peaches" Browning, child wife of Edward W. "Daddy" Browning, 59-year-old New York millionaire, broke down and wept on the stand today at the trial of her separation suit as she related the story of the first night of her honeymoon with Browning.

After describing the first night of her married life the youthful wife broke down completely and had to leave the stand with her testimony unfinished. She was excused by Justice Seeger.

After a short time, however, she recovered sufficiently to resume her testimony.

"Peaches" fumbled nervously at a locket hanging from a gold chain from her neck as she told of other incidents of her married life. She described how Browning forced her to see reporters at all hours at the Grandstan and at other places. She said Browning also forced her to pose in affectionate postures with him for the benefit of photographers.

"Was it true that you proposed to Mr. Browning?" Epstein asked.

"No, it is not."

"Peaches," attired in a blue silk dress and a little blue hat, "took" the witness stand at 10:35 a. m.

The 16-year-old child bride looked about the court room rather timidly as she sat in the witness chair. Her hands went to her forehead to smooth back her blonde hair time and again.

Begins Examination

The direct examination of "Peaches" was begun by Henry Epstein.

Q. Mrs. Browning, do you recall how you met the plaintiff, Edward West Browning?

A. I do. At a dance at the Hotel McAlpin, I met him on March 5, 1926.

Q. Was Edward West Browning at the dance when you arrived?

A. He was not. He came in at 11 o'clock.

Q. Did he have a girl with him?

A. No.

Q. Was he greeted by young women when he came in?

A. He was. Many greeted him.

Q. Did you greet him?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you meet him?

A. A girl I had known introduced us and he asked me to dance. Then he asked me to let him come to see me.

"Peaches" spoke in a low voice at first, but after she answered her voice gained power and she seemed more at ease.

The throng in the courtroom was listening to every word intently.

"Peaches" was given a drink of water. She resumed her silk clad knees and in a still more confident manner replied to further questioning by the state.

Q. When did you next see Mr. Browning?

A. About 10 days later. We went to the Greenwich Village Follies and to a club.

Gave Away Secrets

Q. Did you notice anything peculiar about Mr. Browning at that time?

A. Yes. He bragged of how he and other bootleggers operated and [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible]

NORRIS CASE SCHEDULED FOR JURY LATE TODAY

Final Pleas for Conviction and Acquittal of Texas Pastor Made

Austin, Tex., Jan. 25—After listening for several hours to attorneys for both sides alternately calling him a knave and a knight, a saint and a sinner, a cold-blooded murderer and a high-minded gentleman defending his life, Rev. J. Frank Norris came into court today to face the bombardment of Special Prosecutor "Wild Bill" McLean's closing argument to the jury.

Rev. Norris has been on trial here since Jan. 10 on a murder charge growing out of the shooting to death of D. E. Chipps, Fort Worth lumberman, in the study of the First Baptist Church of Fort Worth, of which Rev. Norris is pastor, last July.

The minister claims he shot in self defense when the lumberman made a move toward a hip pocket, but the state introducing the testimony of police officers who declared Chipps was unarmed when they searched his body immediately after the shooting.

Yesterday, Rev. Norris sat in court closely guarded by some of his Fort Worth friends, who said they feared an attack on the pastor in the closing hours of the trial.

This morning, Judge Ike White was to address the jury for the defense. He will be followed by District Attorney J. D. Moore, of Austin, for the state. Dayton Moore, one of the chief defense attorneys will make the final plea for Norris' acquittal and then "Wild Bill" McLean will close for the state.

Americans Buy Wrangell Island; Russia Holds It

And, Now Lomen Brothers Want It; But U. S. Doesn't Recognize Moscow

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 — The Lomen brothers, of the Lomen Reindeer and Trading Corporation, of Nome, Alaska, hold the only regularly bought and paid-for title to Wrangell Island, but the soviet government of Russia holds the island itself.

CARL J. LOMEN

Wrangell Island is no farming country.

It's as cold a bit of landscape as there is on earth. It lies in the Arctic Ocean, about 100 miles north of the Siberian coast and 400 miles northwest of Bering Strait, well on its way to the oNrth Pole.

Yet Russia considered it well worth grabbing and the Lomens emphatically want their island back.

DESPITE its climate, Wrangell Island has its good points.

It's a great place for furs. Its 34 or 50 Osquare miles will support a lot of reindeer. Its waters are alive with fish. Walruses by the thousand make their headquarters along its coast.

Most important of all, it's on the aerial main line, from nearly everywhere to almost everywhere else, across the North Pole. From the British Isles to Japan, for instance is too far for a plane to hop over the pole, but it can do it nicely with a stop at Wrangell.

When trans-polar flying becomes the rage, Wrangell Island will be the most important way station on the route.

"IT'S valuable," said President Carl J. Lomen of the Lomen brothers company, in Washington the other day, "for its fur and its fish and its reindeer pasturage, but nobody can estimate what it will be worth, as aviation develops, as a 'pied a terre' for planes bound over the top of the world.

"What's Malta?" continued Lomen. "Just a little rock in the sea. As an island, not of much account. But strategically it's the naval key to the Mediterranean. That's what Wrangell will be to Arctic aviation."

So when Vilhjalmur Stefansson, hard up at the time, offered to sell the island to the Lomens in 1923, they paid him some thousands for it and considered that they'd made a good buy.

It was a maverick island when Stefansson sold it. A Canadian, he stamped it with the British brand. The Lomens, Americans, rubbed this out and re-branded it with the stars and stripes.

BUT the Russians actually got to it before the Lomens did.

The Lomens had an ordinary boat, which had trouble with the ice. The Russians used an icebreaker, which crashed right through. They took off Charles Wells, a white American, and 12 American Eskimos whom the Lomens had acquired as colonists from Stefansson, when they bought him out. They also appropriated $10,000 of the Lomens' furs.

Wells and his Eskimos next turned up at Vladivostock, Wells, according to the Russians, sick.

"Unless something's done pretty quick," urged Carl Lomen upon the state department, "Wells will die. Eskimos tell no tales."

But the state department couldn't do anything, because it never had recognized the soviet government. Wells accordingly died. The Eskimos were deported to China and subsequently got to Alaska. They don't know exactly what did happen, as Lomen predicted they wouldn't.

WRANGELL Island has been visited several times since Baron Wrangell looked for it but didn't find it in 1821, but nobody ever bought it for cash until the Lomens did. Now Russia has gypped them out of it, and until the state department recognizes the Moscow government, they can't do a thing.

CITY HOSPITAL SHOWS PROFIT IN 1926 REPORT

$2,052.70 Cleared During Year, Figures Reveal; On Paying Basis, Claim

Marion's City Hospital was self-sustaining during 1926, showing a profit of $2,052.70 for the year, the annual report of the institution filed last night with City Council revealed.

This was the first year since the hospital began operation that receipts totalled more than expenses, records at the city offices show. Receipts in 1926 were $47,197.95 and expenditures amounted to $45,145.25.

The annual report, listing figures and other details covering the hospital business last year, was submitted to council by W. B. Strayer, director of public safety, who has charge of the management. The report was accepted and placed on file and Mr. Strayer was highly commended by members of council for progress made in establishing the hospital on a paying basis.

Report Summary

A summary of the report follows:

Receipts: board and care of patients, $37,088.80; operating room, $4,054; medicine, $1,328.62; special nurses' board, $2,139.26; dressings, $1,739.30; sundries, $572.81; total $47,822.79; less charity and hospital employes' accounts of $624.94; net receipts, $47,197.95.

Expenses: pay-roll $20,888.73; superintendent's salary, $1,635; bookkeeper's salary, $1,080; stationery, $176.86; incidentals $1,336.30; light and fuel, $3,520.50; buildings and lands, $1,287.46; laundry, $509.51; medicine, $6,380.32; groceries, $8,331.57; total $45,145.25.

875 Patients in 1926

During the year 875 patients were registered at the hospital for a total of 9,133 days' board and treatment. There were 51 deaths, the report showed.

Receipts listed in the report include all accounts receivable. A summary showing actual cash receipts over a five-year period indicate how business at the hospital has increased. This summary is as follows:

Cash receipts during 1922, $20,328.12; 1923, $35,834.44; 1924, $30,529.87; 1925, $39,822.39; 1926, $44,824.70.

Should profits continue to increase in connection with the hospital the annual tax levy made for the institution will eventually be eliminated, officials say. It will be necessary to continue the tax for at least a few years, however, to provide for necessary improvements to the building and take care of emergencies, it is stated. A new and larger laundry is listed as one of the hospital's most urgent needs.

LARGE NUMBER HEARS CONCERT BY CANTO CLUB

Arthur Kraft, Soloist, Divides Honors with Chorus Under Ernst C. Carl

In fine voice and with a selection of songs that brought out all the beauty and quality of his lyric tenor voice, Arthur Kraft last night made the ninth concert of the Canto Club one of the finest that has been given in this city.

Members of the Canto Club also gave an exceptionally fine concert. The blended artistry of Mr. Kraft and the Canto Club reached its height in "Oft in the Stilly Night," sung as a special arrangement of Ernst C. Carl, conductor of the Canto Club, and in which Mr. Kraft sang the solo parts. This song probably brought the greatest expression of appreciation from the large audience present.

Varied Program

The program, both of the Canto Club songs, and those of Mr. Kraft was arranged with a view to the wide range of program which Mr. Kraft employs in all his concerts. From the viewpoint of the audience this spread of spirit and expression of song was splendidly evidence on the part of the Canto Club in the first group of songs, when the Club sang "Sweet and Low" and followed it with "Invictus," giving to Henley's famous words all the sharp challenge that he wrote into them. Then came an encore, another sweet melody, "How Can I Leave Thee."

On the part of Mr. Kraft this varied program was shown by his singing of "Virgin, Tutto Amor," and the spirited "Gia Il Sole Dal Gange" and a sly little ballad "She's So Queer."

Piano Numbers

Mrs. Kraft's accompanist, William Hughes, for his special part of the program gave "Rhapsody, B Minor," "Don Alfonso," and "Etude, C Minor" during the concert.

Probably the most appreciated part of the program was the singing of the song dedicated to Mr. Kraft, "I Light the Blessed Candles." He followed this with "Take, Oh Take," Nocturne" and "Morning." The fine quality and range of voice of Mr. Kraft were shown in the singing of "Ye People Rend Your Hearts," and the aria "If With All Your Hearts." Again in contrast with his preceding songs he sang as an encore the song "Sweet Little Woman of Mine."

The Canto Club also gave the special arrangement of "Songs My Mother Taught Me" of Ernst C. Carl, then "Oft in the Stilly Night," with solo by Mr. Kraft and closed with the arrangement by Mr. Carl of "March of the Men of Harlech," with a change in harmony in the verse "Though our mothers may be weeping," and back to the original arrangement in the closing chorus.

SENATE REFUSES CONFIRMATION OF C. E. WOODS

Coolidge Sustains Blow When Personal Appointment Is Rejected

Washington, Jan. 25—President Coolidge was seeking a new appointee today as a result of the senate's overwhelming rejection of Cyrus E. Woods for the interstate commerce commission of Pennsylvania, named by the president at the behest of Pennsylvania influences.

Although the president and secretary of the treasury Mellon threw all their political resources into the fight, the senate refused to confirm Woods with as little compunction as though he were a village postmaster instead of a former ambassador to Spain and Japan. The vote of rejection was 49 to 28.

The senate's action, to many political observers, definitely marked the extent of the split between the executive and the senate. Administration leaders admitted afterwards that no executive within memory had suffered so crushing a defeat on a personal appointment after making so valiant a fight as was made for Woods. Some leaders even described the vote as the worst blow to Coolidge prestige since he entered the White House and as certainly the worst defeat suffered by the Mellon interests since the Republicans returned to national power in March, 1921.

THREE MEN AND THREE WOMEN ARE FINED $40

All Charged with Disorderly Conduct; One Man Accused of Firing Gun

Fines totalling $40 were assessed by Municipal Judge Martin, yesterday afternoon, against three women and three men arrested Sunday night in a raid by police on a rooming house at 415 Thompson-st. All of the six prisoners faced charges of disorderly conduct and one of the men was held on an additional charge of intoxication. He was accuse of having contributed to the entertainment at a party being staged at the Thompson-st place by firing a 38-caliber revolver.

Sound of the gun shots attracted the attention of persons residing in the Thompson-st neighborhood and police were summoned.

Fined $10, Costs

Charles Shepard, 21, who resides at the rooming house where the raid took place, was fined $10 and costs. He was the member of the party alleged to have enlivened the evening by bringing his revolver into action.

Etta Cook of 795 W. Center-st, was also fined $10 and costs. The visit to court cost her double the amount levied against her companions because she admitted having been in police court before on a disorderly conduct charge.

The others, fined $5 and costs each, were Anna Chesser, 18, of 283 Fiesar, Lawrence Eckard 22, of 795 W. Center-st, Carl Noggle, 19, of 283 Leest and Oscar Ferris, 22, of 415 Thompson-st.

Monday's business was the most extensive that the local Municipal Court has handled since it began operations on Jan. 1. Eleven persons arrested on charges ranging from burglary to loitering were brought before Judge Martin during the day.

Important Case

The most important case was that of John and Arthur Erwin, aged 18 and 20, respectively, brothers arrested on burglary charges. They were bound over to the grand jury and are now out under bond.

In addition to these two and the pairs of six brought in from Thompson-st, P. H. Murning, 51, of Steubenville, was arraigned on an intoxication charge and Fred Rodney 21, and Sam Mera, 20, negroes arrested for loitering in the Erie railroad yards, were given hearings on charges of loitering.

Murning was fined $10 and costs and Rodney and Mera were released after being ordered to leave the city at once. Rodney said that his home was in El Paso, Tex., and Mera gave Mexico as his place of residence.

HOCKING POWER DEPARTMENT IS AWARD WINNER

Motive Section of Railroad Force Reports Fewer Accidents in Given Period

The Motive Power Department of the Hocking Valley yesterday received the award made to the department having the least number of serious accidents marked against it during the last six months of 1926. The exact number of accidents for the six months in the power department was not known here today.

The silver loving cup was awarded to the winner yesterday during a meeting of supervisors and other officials of the Hocking Valley at the Nell House. F. A. Sparks, supervisor in this district, was in attendance at the meeting.

The Maintenance of Way Department and Transportation Department each had a death in their list of accidents and received a debit mark of 25 points for this reason. Most of the other accidents counted only one debit.

The contest began July 1 and came to a close Dec. 31. Its purpose was to decrease the number of accidents on the Hocking Valley. A noticeable decrease has been reported since the contest started. Figures on the total number of accidents and debit marks will be available here within the next few days.

In Columbus

L. C. Nodds, general car foreman in the local Hocking Valley yards, is in Columbus today in attendance at a get together meeting of the car foremen and other officials of the Hocking Valley, being held at the Nell House.

The meeting was called early today and will continue until late this afternoon.

Acting As Cashier

H. W. Stalder is acting as cashier of the Erie freight house here during the absence of B. M. Bieber, cashier, and Miss Nina O'Donnell, assistant cashier. Mr. Bieber is off duty, suffering with a broken right arm and Miss O'Donnell [illegible]

During the past week, Agent O. R. Herget has assumed the duties of cashier but yesterday Mr. Stalder was transferred to the position. Mr. Bieber and Miss O'Donnell will probably be off duty for some time.

Rail Briefs

William Yeargo, shopper in the local Erie freight house, spent the week-end in Sharon, Pa.

Despite reports of high water and ice, all passenger trains on railroads operating through this city were on time yesterday.

J. E. Sifritt, cost accountant, Kent Division, Erie Railroad, was in Dayton yesterday on company's business.

C. M. Mueller, traveling auditor of the Hocking Valley, was a visitor in the local freight house yesterday, checking up on the station.

The Tammany Society, the famous political organization in New York City, came into existence May 12, 1789, scarcely a week after the inauguration of Washington as first president.

ILLEGAL PAYMENTS OF $76,889.52 ARE FOUND

State Examiner Makes Revelations in Village Records of Licking County

Columbus, Jan. 25—Alleged illegal payments totaling $76,889.52 and findings for recovery amounting to $2,650.81 are listed in a report, made public today by State Auditor Joseph Tracy, relating to a state examination of village records throughout Licking County.

The examination, conducted by State Examiner George B. Rector, covered the period from Sept. 16, 1923 to July 10, 1926.

Most of the findings were based upon claims by the examiner that wages and salaries were paid without first being legally fixed by council and that purchases were made without complying with the law requiring contracts and competitive bidding.

Claiming that the village councils arranged for expenditures by adopting motions, instead of passing ordinances or resolutions, fixing compensation, the report held that various employes and persons were illegally paid, as wages and salaries, as follows: Granville village, $27,618.81; Johnstown, $15,677.-61; Utica, $16,593.91. Scores of persons thus paid, it was held, owe their respective villages this money.

VIEW BODY OF LITTLE FRIEND THROUGH WINDOW

Columbus, Jan. 25—Barred by a quarantine against diphtheria, friends of Little Richard Thomas Arthur, 4, viewed his body through a window here, and stood in the dooryard to hear the minister preach the child's funeral sermon.

SENT "FAKE" STORY TO PAPER; MAN IS JAILED

Troy, Jan. 25—Because he inserted a "fake" news story into an envelope sent by a rival correspondent to a newspaper, Harold B. Gosse, former Piqua newspaper reporter, was sentenced to 60 days in Miami County jail and fined costs by Judge Jones. Thirty days of the sentence was suspended, however.

RECORD UNBROKEN

Columbus, Jan. 25—Billy Brightman's six-year record of perfect attendance at East Main Street school was unbroken today, despite the death of his mother, Mrs. Mary Huber Brightman, 37. Billy reported at school, but was officially excused by the superintendent.

SEEK TWO PRISONERS

London, Jan. 25—A search was on here today for Forest Norman and Ben Mason, prisoners from Zanesville, who escaped from the prison farm here sometime Sunday night or early Monday. They were both serving sentences for liquor law violations.

TO PROTEST BILL

Columbus, Jan. 25—A delegation from the convention of Ohio pastors meeting here, will attend a hearing before the senate judiciary committee, scheduled today, to protest against passage of Senator George Bender's bill to limit the authority of justices of the peace to their individual bailwicks.

In the background of this picture is the pants shop of the Richman's Clothes Factory at 1900 East 55th Street, Cleveland. Extra trousers are also made in our Lorain plant.

This well-dressed, happy young woman is one of the workers in our pants shop. She is placing finished trousers on a floor truck ready to go direct to our store and our customers.

Extra Trousers
$3 — $4 — $6

Three thousand pairs of trousers are produced daily in our great Cleveland factory alone;—several hundreds more in our Lorain plant. That's a lot of pants, yet such is their remarkable value that we could sell as many more if we could make them.

The materials from which we make these extra trousers will be a marvel even to old Richman customers. The extra trousers at $4.00 are all wool—those at $3.00 are half wool and half cotton. The $6.00 trousers are made from the same fine materials as Richman's Clothes and match our suits. Thousands of steady Richman customers, who already know the value of these extra trousers as made in the Richman plants, will quickly reduce this new stock. All we can do is tell you of the unusual opportunity, the wide choice which you will now find in our store—invite you to come in and provide for your needs from a large stock devoted to the showing and sale of extra pants at $3.00, $4.00 and $6.00.

Ohio River Flood Waters Creep Nearer Crest Stage

RESIDENTS IN LOWLANDS FLEE TO HIGH GROUND

Gauges Evidence Passing of Extreme Crisis from Parkersburg to Pittsburgh

Cincinnati, Jan. 25—The muddy flood waters of the Ohio River continued to creep nearer the crest-stage today, causing a shortage of electricity, stopping traffic, and driving residents of low-land districts from their homes.

Reports coming the river had fallen from Pittsburgh to Parkersburg, W. Va., the latter point to Louisville, Ky.

Freezing temperatures predicted for today were expected to preclude the possibility of further rain, and relief for the inundated area was expected to come in the colder weather.

May Abandon Station

Abandonment of the Central Union station, into which six railroad lines run, had not been made necessary by the water hour this morning, but arrangements had been made to reroute trains to temporary terminals if the station property to higher areas. Water stood 6 feet deep in some streets in the section of the city.

Residents Flee

Residents of Aurora, Ind., were fleeing from here, were forced to seek higher territory today.

Nearly 150 residents of Portsmouth, Ohio, one of the eastern portion of the city had been forced to leave their homes this morning, reports here stated. In Covington, Ky., where many homes were flooded, service on several street car lines was discontinued today when water covered the tracks.

Houseboats Loosed

Several houseboats, tossed by flood waters, broke their moorings, and went down here early today, but the persons aboard had left their floating homes before the flood reached a dangerous stage, and no lives were lost.

Traffic on the Cincinnati & Louisville packet line was suspended today because the large boats could not pass under bridges over the Ohio.

Summer camps along the Ohio and Little Miami rivers have been practically swept away by raging waters, it was reported today.

Boys Getting "Rich"

Throughout the stricken areas, small boys with improvised rafts today were reaping small fortunes at least in their own opinion, by running errands for those who would not venture outside. They charged 50 cents for a "trip to the grocery" and $1 for passengers to the nearest car line—and were having more business than they could handle.

Watch Out for Colds That "Hang On"

Be suspicious of a cold that is hard to shake off. It is a warning signal of catarrh.

If you take cold easily, or find it hard to get rid of a cold, start taking Hall's Catarrh Medicine now. It reduces the inflammation, tones and strengthens the mucous membranes, and thus helps build up immunity against colds and nose and throat affections.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine is a safe, tested treatment, proved for 40 years. Ask your druggist. Price 85c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

his pockets and kept pulling them out to give them to ladies.

Q. When did you next see him?

A. Soon after this he took me to a show called 'A Night in Paris' It was quite a nude show.

Q. Did he do anything else?

A. Yes. He bought me a book containing pictures of nude women.

Q. Did you keep it.

A. I guess not. I can't find it now.

Q. Did Mr. Browning ever mention marriage to you

A. Yes. He asked me to marry him on March 27.

Q. What age did you give him.

A. I told him I was only 15.

Q. What did your mother do, or say?

Too Old for Her

A. She said Mr. Browning was much too old for me and that he must not take up all of my time.

"Peaches" was entirely composed on the stand by now. She replied in a voice that could be heard all over the courtroom and her answers came clear and swift.

She was asked by Epstein concerning the mysterious acid burns she sustained last April, a few days before she was married to Browning in Cold Spring, N. Y., by a justice of the peace. "Peaches" was asleep in bed in the forenoon when some one smeared her face with a burning concoction which has left pink, lumpish marks around her chin and neck. She put her hand to her disfigured face as she answered.

Woke Up Dazed

"I woke up and felt quite dazed. It seemed to me that some one had scratched me, so I called a friend on the 'phone. My mother was at work at that time. I told her I thought I was burned. She hung up the receiver and came to me. When my mother came she cried."

Q. Did Mr. Browning ask you to let photographers make pictures of you when you were in bed.

A. He did.

Q. Did you permit it?

A. I did not.

Q. Were reporters admitted?

A. Yes, Mr. Browning let some reporters in and they stood at the foot of the bed.

Q. Did he bring you flowers.

A. Yes, flowers, lots of them.

Q. What did Mr. Browning say when he asked you to marry him.

A. He said: "Let's run away and get married." So I said, "Yes, that's fine. I would do most anything to get out of the city."

Q. Who were present when Mr. Browning asked you to marry him?

A. My mother, Mr. Christian, Mr. Dale, Mr. Swint and my nurse.

Q. When was this?

A. April 9.

Q. What was said?

A. Mr. Brown said, "Let's go to Cold Spring and be married." So all of us went there in Mr. Browning's car. We got there about 1 o'clock in the morning.

Q. Where did you go.

A. To a house Mr. Dale and my mother had engaged. It was an old house. We went to bed the next day and we drove to a Mrs. Grenlicks.

Q. Then where did you go.

A. I was taken to a farm house owned by a Mr. Grant Rice. Mr. Browning was there on the steps waiting for me.

Q. Then what.

A. We were married by a justice of the peace.

Q. Where did you go then.

A. Back to Cold Spring, and Mr. Browning bought me a wedding ring at Peekskill.

Justice Seeger ruled that the trial will be open to the press and the public and that there will be no secret session.

Young girls of the adolescent age will be barred from the court room, however, the judge announced.

"I have been asked by both sides to hold this trial in chambers because it involves the private life of the two litigants and also because Mrs. Browning is under age and therefore a ward of the court," said Judge Seeger.

Sees No Injury

"I have given this matter overnight consideration. Considering the publicity that already has been given this case I do not see how any injury can be done to either of the litigants by the trial being open to the public.

"The hardest thing for me to decide was the matter of the court's protection of Mrs. Browning on the ground that publicity in this case would hurt her and affect her future life. I believe she can not be injured any more than she has been through a public hearing."

"I feel better today," "Peaches" told the International News Service. "I'm not going to cry today—if I can help it."

Browning arrived in the courtroom at 10:20 o'clock. He was smiling and debonair. He glanced at "Peaches" when he sat down but she didn't seem to see him.

Attorney Henry Epstein for "Peaches" asked that certain portions of the testimony be held privately if it so warranted.

Doctor Testifies

"I will consider that," said Judge Seeger.

The first witness called by "Peaches'" attorney was Dr. Edward Cackle. He testified he had known "Peaches" since April, 1924.

"Did you treat her?" Attorney Epstein asked on direct examination.

"Yes, I removed her tonsils under local anaesthesia."

"Was she in good physical condition for her age?"

"Yes."

She was 15 at that time, the doctor said in reply to the question.

"She was suffering from no serious ailments?"

"No, sir."

The doctor testified that when he examined "Peaches" last year she seemed to be a very well-developed girl.

"Did you notice any nervous condition?"

"I did not," the doctor replied.

A new witness, Dr. George Blakesley, was called. He is a nerve specialist.

Dr. Blakesley testified that he first met "Peaches" and Browning in his office about five months after she had married Browning.

"She said she was having nervous attacks especially in the morning. She had loss of consciousness, frothing at the mouth, tremors and these were followed by impaired memory," the doctor stated.

"Was Mr. Browning with her?"

"He was."

"When did you see her again?"

"Two days later."

"Had she improved?"

"Yes."

"Recently did Mr. Browning come to your office?"

"Yes."

"Who was with him?"

"Mr. Dale, his attorney."

Direct examination of Dr. Blakesley here ended and the witness was taken over for cross examination by Attorney John E. Mack for Browning.

There's More to This than Health!

Cleans So Thoroughly, Even Perspiration Can't Offend

All the trick laxatives in the world can't tempt people who understand the properties of cascara.

A hundred different drugs will purge the bowels, but a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as morning dew!

Your grandparents took "salts," and slowly washed away the mucous membrane with the waste! Mineral oils are better, but they leave the coating that your blood must then carry off through the pores. But when you cascarize the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

Don't get in the habit of taking medicine for constipation—or even for auto-intoxication. If you have the habit, stop it. A candy cascaret is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them and the taste tempts most grown-ups to take "more." Ain't what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascaret tonight! All druggists, 10c & 25c.—Adv.

"EXCITEMENT used to cause such acidity in my system that everyone around me was conscious of it—even outdoors. It was a lucky day I found the sweetening effects of the candy laxative—crime to distribute poisonous denatured alcohol. That is one side of it.

THE other side is this. If government distributed unlimited quantities of alcohol fit for human consumption to all manufacturers that use industrial alcohol this country soon would be where it was in Jefferson's time, on a whisky basis, and bootleg whisky basis.

IF one of the 17,000 new laws could discourage crime without "cruel and unusual punishment" that would be a blessing.

New York State with more population and consequently more criminals than any other, is running short of prison room. Only 75 more criminals can be housed in state prisons. The police of New York could pick them up overnight if prohibition was taken seriously.

SENATOR WADSWORTH of New York asks the senate "to banish hypocrisy from American life by repealing the prohibition amendment." Republican senators know that Senator Wadsworth was beaten because he opposed that eighteenth amendment. They don't want to be beaten, so they won't try to repeal it. They fear the prohibition question more than poison ivy, or rattlesnakes.

SERIOUS symptoms in China, according to this morning's news. More British soldiers and Japanese warships are sent to China. Signs indicate that Britain, Japan and the United States have agreed on an allotment of forces to defend Shanghai. Our government says no "formal agreement" for joint action has been taken. It is perhaps a gentlemen's agreement.

W. CENTER-ST WORK

tions stand in the way of going ahead with the Center-st work this year it might be well for the city to delay other improvement projects in favor of Center-st. This, it was asserted, is the most important thoroughfare in the city and should be given preference.

Arrangements have been made for resurfacing of Columbia-st between High and Davids-sts and Blaine-av from Center-st to Churches. These improvements, it was suggested, might be held over, if necessary, in favor of the W. Center-st proposal.

This course can not be followed, Councilman Prettyman said today, due to the fact that nearly all preliminary legislation has been adopted for the Columbia-st and Blaine-av work. In addition, a part of the money to be used for resurfacing Columbia-st is now in the city treasury and can be used for no other purpose. This money was held out from payments made to the contracting firm which constructed the sanitary sewer line in Columbia-st several years ago with the understanding that it was to be used for replacing paving torn up for the sewer excavation.

The Columbia-st and Blaine-av resurfacing plans have progressed to the point where tentative rates of assessments to be levied for the property owners' share of the cost are completed. These rates were submitted to council last night by City Engineer Cathers and received Council's approval.

According to plans which have been under discussion but not definitely decided upon, Center-st would be repaved from State-st west to the Hocking Valley railway. From Oak-st west the thoroughfare would be widened 13 feet to conform to the widt in the up-town district.

Even Division

All of the cost of widening with the exception of two per cent would be assessed against the property owners and cost of paving the original width would be evenly divided between the city and property owners with the street railway company paying for paving between its tracks and one foot on each side of the tracks.

Finances are the only possible obstacle to having the work done this year, the councilmen interviewed today stated. It would be necessary for the city to issue bonds and increase in the bonded debt must be held at a minimum this year, the officials say. City Treasurer Queen has warned council that the sinking fund of the city is not well supplied with funds and that the city's credit may be impaired if a careful watch is not maintained over the debt situation this year.

All members of council say that they will not approve plans for the Center-st paving unless arrangements are made to construct a storm water sewer line in the thoroughfare before the paving is laid. This is necessary to relieve flood conditions which prevail in the west side business district whenever there is a heavy fall of rain, councilmen say.

Councilman Williams is of the opinion that a sewer line of medium size would serve the purpose and that the cost would not be extensive. There are other members, however, who believe that the cost of the sewer would be an item of considerable proportions.

These influences want the administration to make this move in all sincerity and not use it merely as a gesture with which to smooth over the present difficulties.

Coupled with this movement is a demand for the recognition of the Cantonese government. American recognition at this time, it is contended, would give the Cantonese the moral support they need to hasten the day when they will gain complete control of the country and carry out their promise to restore peace and order.

BRITISH TROOPS TO EMBARK TODAY

London, Jan. 25—Plans for the British war office for dispatching troops to China matured rapidly today.

The liner Minnesota arrived at Portsmouth at 8 o'clock this morning to take on a thousand marines. A score of ship's carpenters immediately boarded the liner to make the necessary preparations for the troops. Actual embarkation will start at 2 o'clock when the battalion will march the three miles from its barracks to the docks, accompanied by brass bands.

The troop ship is scheduled to sail with the first tide tomorrow morning for Shanghai, going via Hongkong.

Major General John Duncan, veteran commander in the Gallipoli campaign during the World War, who yesterday was appointed to command the "Shanghai defense" forces, is sailing today aboard the liner Megantic from Liverpool with his staff.

The departure of the defense forces for Shanghai will proceed steadily from tomorrow as fast as the troops are equipped and transportation made ready.

Advices from Melbourne today said officials there refused to confirm reports that Australian troops and Australian cruisers have been offered for service in China.

A meeting of the cabinet has been called for tomorrow to consider the Chinese situation.

BUSINESS UNDER GUARD OF POLICE

Shanghai, Jan. 25—Under heavy guard of police the banks and business places in Hankow opened today, according to advices received here.

The situation in Hankow is reported as quiet although uneasiness prevails.

In Shanghai the tension remains unrelieved although there has been no recurrence of the rioting of Saturday.

The anticipated decisive battle between the northerners and the Cantonese still is a matter of conjecture, but reports received here state that Chang Tso Lin has started a heavy movement of troops, with Hankow, Nanking and Shanghai as their objective.

Hongkong dispatches state that refugees arriving there report heavy looting in Nantsie and Foochow. The Y. M. C. A. at Nantsie was invaded and heavy damage was done to the American Methodist Institution church. Secretary Gould of the Y. M. C. A. had his home raided while Americans were dragged through the streets while their homes were looted.

STEUBENVILLE FIREMEN CARRY CASE TO COURT

Steubenville, Jan. 25—City Firemen will go into court today in an effort to get a 20 per cent increase in wages. They now receive $150 a month. The increase was authorized by an election last year, but the city council never has granted the raise.

An exchange says all of us should emulate Mr. B. Franklin. "Tut, tut!" We have far too many almanacs as it is.

Even though all Lita says were true, didn't she know when she married him that Charlie had an artistic temperament?

While, ordinary, we may be interested in faunal matters, it affords mighty little consolation to us true aristocrats to learn that a kangaroo can leap seventy feet.

Anybody might know from Senator Jim Reed's Hotel Astor address that he comes from a state where they have to be shown.

It's worth noting that just as soon as the Turks legislated "uncivilized noises" out of business, we quit 'em cold, the senate possibly taking it as a gratuitous fling at unlimited debate.

It's hardly probable that Charlie realized when he was making his millions that the bulk of them would probably go to the lawyers.

The Hon. William Gibbs McAdoo says he is not talking politics, but the Hon. Mr. Smith, of New York, has a suspicion that William is thinking politics a lot.

"Ma" Ferguson told the Texans that she retired as governor "without a regret," which goes to show that feeling down in the Lone Star state is all one way.

Ever since Senator Bruce blocked legislation in the senate, the other day, by invoking its archaic rules, we have been wondering if maybe Vice President Dawes didn't lure him into doing it just to show the senate what fool rules it has made.

Very appropriately, Chicago waited until "Thrift" week to offer the estimated cost of $500,000,000 as a reason why she shouldn't be compelled to build a garbage disposal plant.

An eastern exchange says "a beauty contest does nothing whatever toward deciding the prospects of a useful and remunerative career as a typist and secretary." Well, there's no denying that it usually makes a contestant a lot faster.

Remarking that a policy of silence if often advantageous to statesmanship, the Washington Star says: "Circumstances do not permit Senator Borah to use it." As we understand it, Bill's muffler is wide open and his cut-out is out of commission.

In the face of the fact that Nicaragua is not lacking in the number of her presidents, the conclusion is just about forced that lack of quality is what is causing the trouble down there.

The books show an Italian surplus for last year of 225,000,000 lire, but as this year's budget has been increased by 250,000,000 lire for circulation reduction and 125,000,000 for railroad construction, which was previously debited to a special account, the real surplus is 541,000,000 lire or 313,000,000 lire more than last year. While there may be question of the permanency of Mr. Mussolini's reforms, there's no getting away from the fact that it's some reform—so long as it lasts.

An Excellent Record.

Were we inclined to be superstitious to any marked degree we would hesitate about felicitating the citizenship of Marion over its comparative immunity from fire loss last year. With the national loss from fires steadily increasing until it is now figured to average $2,164,383, the 1926 fire loss of loss than $74,000 in Marion, as indicated by advance information from Fire Chief McFarland, seems to us to be decidedly small, especially so when compared with the loss of the preceding year of $254,000, the big end of which was due to the burning of the Buick and Studebaker garages.

In the light of the fact that approximately $50,000 of the loss of 1926 was due to the burning of the Boyer grain elevator and the Smith mattress factory, it may be seen that the loss from the average run of fires for the year was less than $24,000. We may be wrong in so assuming, but right or wrong, we take this to mean that the people of Marion, in the main, were very careful and that the local fire department did exceptionally good work.

When such fires as break out in business or residential sections of a city the size of Marion fall below $24,000, it speaks well for the care exercised by citizens, our freedom from fire hazard and the excellent handling of fires by our department.

We have long taken pride in our fire-fighters, a pride which we believe has been fully justified, and we feel that such a record as that of last year can not do other than encourage such a feeling of pride. We believe more than that; we believe that our entire citizenship is appreciative of the department and the excellent work it has done, often in the face of serious and what to many departments might have been disheartening handicaps.

And We Are Paying the Bills.

Last week we made comment on the charges made by union labor leaders, that the communistic leaders of the fur workers had refused to account for over $600,000 of the $550,000, expended or appropriated by them during the fur workers' strike. It was charged by union leaders—openly charged—that the communists had used what they did of this sum of $600,000 not accounted for to bribe police officers and incite and bring about violence toward the members of the union unfriendly to the communistic wing and to terrify employers.

Now the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union is making a concerted attack on the deposed left wing—that made up of the communists, direct actionists and other believers in and champions of violence—in which it demands an accounting for the $2,500,000 expended by the joint board of the union during the recent strike, the communistic members of which have been deposed and thrown out of the union.

The strike of the garment workers lasted twenty-three weeks, and the loss in pay to the garment workers alone is estimated at $30,000,000. President Morris Sigman, of the International union, in making announcement of the fact that an accounting had been demanded from the joint board, which has been held to be a subsidiary of the International, said:

"These tremendous sums of money spent by the communists in a strike that was unnecessary and which was called by them against the advice of the International solely for political reasons, will have to be fully accounted for. The cloakmakers and dressmakers who have now got rid of these communist misfits are entitled to know who squandered millions of their hard-earned dollars."

He added that "our union will be particularly interested to learn what has become of the $2,500,000 spent so lavishly by the committee of the cloak strike, all loaded down with communist party members."

Eight hundred thousand dollars burned up in the strike of the fur workers, to say nothing of the pay lost by them and the losses sustained by employers as a result of the strike. Three million, five hundred thousand dollars of the garment workers' funds gone and $30,000,000 lost by them in pay, to say nothing of the loss of millions upon millions to employers. These losses limited to two unions in two strikes the results of the activities of the communists. How much longer can the government afford to dally with such activities. How much longer can the people of the United States afford to bear the increasing load these communists are placing upon them, for it is the general public, after all is said, which is footing the bill. The public may not know it—that is, the general public may not—but it is paying for these strikes and the losses they entail, just the same, every time it buys a piece of fur or a garment of woman's wear. Such losses can not be sustained by manufacturers without somebody paying the price and the price is paid in the garment purchased by the ultimate consumer.

Communist activities are costing this country, in one way or another, untold millions each year. The total will probably run high into the hundreds of millions. How long can the people of the country stand for this outrage upon them? How long are they going to permit their servants in office down in Washington to delay a forced exodus of all the direct actionists and other champions and workers of violence generally from our shores?

Things are breaking better than anticipated. As it is to be heard in private, current literature is not to be enriched by the details of the "Peaches" Browning case.

After ignoring the matter for something like 1,000 years, the Chinese are beginning to question the policy of fighting among themselves when it's just as easy to fight outsiders.

Possibly we have been misjudging the Chicago paper which ran an eight-column, first-page streamer over the capture of a hawk up there. We didn't realize, for the time, that the capture of anything in Chicago would justify a streamer.

The newspapers which erroneously refer to it as "the crime wave" will have some difficulty in getting their readers to believe that what they have been floundering around in for four or five years isn't more than a wave.

Kansas is planning to repeal her anti-cigaret law, not because the cigaret is without opposition out in Kansas, but because the law hasn't accomplished the purpose for which it was passed. There's always the danger in such laws that they may encourage rather than diminish the evil, or alleged evil, at which they are aimed by arousing a desire, common to humanity, to do what one is told must not be done.

Vagrant Verse.

TO A DOG.

So, back again? . . . And is your errand done,
Unfailing one?
How quick the gray world, at your morning look,
Turns wonder book!
Come in—O guard and guest;
Come, O you breathless, from a life-long quest!
Search here my heart; and if a comfort be,
Ah, comfort me!
You eloquent one, you best
Of all diviners, so to trace
The weather-gleams upon a face;
With wordless, querying paw,
Adventuring the law!
You shaggy loveliness,
What call was it?—What dream beyond a guess,
Lured you, gray ages back,
From that lone bivouac
Of the wild pack?—
Was it your need, or ours? The calling trail
Of faith that should not fail?
Of hope dim understood?—
That should follow our poor humanhood,
Only because you would!
To search the circle, follow and outstrip,
Men and their fellowship;
And keep your heart no less,
Your to and fro of hope and wistfulness,
Through all world-weathers and against all odds!
Can you forgive us now?—
Your fallen gods?

MAGELLAN WOULDN'T CALL YOU PACIFIC NOW.

To Make Baby Stop Crying.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

An amusing story comes from London. It is about a Glasgow university professor who knows how to make a baby stop crying.

He showed a delegation of women, including Princess Mary, just how the trick is performed. In consequence, father can stay in bed and needn't make his nightly excursion with a crying baby on his shoulder.

When my boy was little my mother wrote me most solicitously saying she hoped I wouldn't take cold from walking the floor nights with young junior. Well, honestly, I never did take cold that way, but I suspect many a father has. But all that is over now! Professor Cameron has solved it.

As I read the story: "The professor merely placed the baby face downward on one of its arms, made a few passes with his hand and patted it gently on the back. Presto! The crying stopped."

Most of the sickness a baby has comes from mistreatment of the digestive organs. Wrong feeding is the chief factor. This means the wrong kind of food, too much food, too little food, hasty feeding—something related to the feeding.

Most of the crying a baby does is in some day related to the digestive organs. Pain in the stomach or colic causes the pain which excites the crying. Just as you feel mean if you have indigestion, so does the infant suffer. It has no way to tell about it except by crying.

Almost every time the baby will stop crying if you turn it on its stomach. This position releases the crowded intestine and relieves the pain. A little gentle patting on the back finishes the job.

Professor Cameron hasn't discovered anything, has he, mother? We knew all that before. Perhaps the passes in the air are new, but we don't take any stock in them. But the changed position and back patting are likely to do the business.

It is vitally important to feed the baby correctly. If it is breast fed it is necessary for the mother to refrain from foods which may affect the milk.

The other day I was at a luncheon where a young mother sat next to me. I was much interested in the care with which she selected her food. Things she liked she wouldn't take because "they disagree with the baby," she said.

More and more and more I adore mothers. It is wonderful what they gladly do for their little ones. No sacrifice is too great—indeed, anything she can do for her baby the mother does not consider a sacrifice.

The surest way to keep the baby from stomach ache is to feed it properly. If frequent crying is the rule you may be sure there is some defect in the method of feeding. What it is you must discover.

To get rid of the cause of the crying is better than Professor Cameron's method of cure, but it is well to know that, too.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

L. H. A. Q—Why is it that after dinner I get such pains in my stomach?

A—That is probably due to indigestion. Faulty diet and eating too fast will cause this condition. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

S. W. Q—I have the habit of eating starch. What effect would this have on the general health?

A—I would advise that you try to exert your will-power and overcome this habit, since it is likely to lead to anemia.

M. C. Q—Will ——— applied under the arms for perspiration prove harmful in any way?

A—I am not familiar with the preparation therefore can not advise you. Hot water compresses applied under the arms for half an hour daily should help to check excessive perspiration of the parts. Where perspiration is excessive, nervousness is usually the cause. Correct this condition.—Copyright, 1927.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. When it was said that the wind blew at a rate of 130 miles an hour during the Florida hurricane, why did it take so long to get from Miami to Pensacola? D. A.

A. The estimated velocity of the wind when the hurricane struck Miami was 125 miles an hour. This did not mark the progress of the storm, however, for after the first onslaught there was a lull, then the wind came from the other direction, indicating that Miami was directly in the center of the hurricane. The storm travelled forward at about 300 to 400 miles a day in crossing the ocean and consumed forty-nine hours in moving from Miami to Pensacola, a distance of about 550 miles.

Q. Is it possible to see the end of the rainbow resting upon an object? L. P.

A. The weather bureau says that the light of the rainbow comes to us from all the water drops the sun is shining upon in the direction of the bow. If the shower is some distance away the lowest drops may be in line with the surface, land or water, within the shower, in which case the bow, as well known, has all the appearance of standing or terminating upon the surface at that point. But, as implied, this is only an optical illusion, owing to that spot and many drops giving the rainbow colors being in the same direction from the observer.

Q. What is being done in the United States to decrease illiteracy? C. S. M.

A. Since this country is led by several others in the low cost of literacy, active steps have been taken to decrease the number of illiterates before the next census is taken. The national illiteracy conference was conducted in Washington from January 11 to January 14, 1924. Every state in the union was represented in the attendance of several hundred members of the following organizations: National Education association; General Federation of Women's clubs; American legion, and the United States bureau of education.

Q. Which is harder to reach, the North or South pole? J. A.

A. It is difficult to say whether the North or South pole is the more difficult of access, since similar conditions are to be met with in both cases. The South polar region is swept by violent and prolonged blizzards, and the coasts are difficult of access, being fringed by oceanic ice caps and projecting glaciers.

Q. Will the post-office department redeem stamped envelopes? F. L. M.

A. The government redeems stamped envelopes, but not envelopes to which the usual postage stamp has been affixed. In redeeming the stamped envelope, the government pays only the face value of the stamp and not the cost of the envelope.

Q. What causes the death of a language? N. T.

A. The death of a language is caused by the literary decadence of the peoples to whom the language was native. Other causes are by conquest and settlement which gradually imposed other languages upon the peoples of the Hebrew nation, Greek and Roman.

An Italian scientist says the day will come when volcanoes will be harnessed and furnish power for industry. Humans are volcanoes. We are full of tremendous impulses, powers, energies. Our job is the job of harnessing. Our task is the task of sending all this force and energy into the right channels. People who go wrong are the people who fail at harnessing the volcano.

You are not likely to go wrong when you buy real estate—especially if you wait long enough. Aaron Burr, shortly before he killed Alexander Hamilton, leased a piece of land in what is now downtown New York for $13.50 or about twenty cents a city lot. Since that time the rental value on that land has increased 1,500,000 per cent. It was leased just the other day.

Strange how even great scholars mix size with progress. J. Paul Goode, noted geographer of the University of Chicago, earnestly predicts that in seventy-five years Chicago will outrank New York and London and will have a population of 15,000,000. He says a quarter of a billion people will then live within a night's railroad ride of this amazing city. He says Chicago will achieve greatness. So it may. It is to be hoped. But its greatness will not be because of 15,000,000 persons living within its corporate limits.

So will this city in which you live today be big seventy-five years from now. But what kind of people are going to be developed in that time? Would that we could look into the heart of that future!

All reform in the life and manners of the world must come from a change in the heart of the individual. There is no such thing as a mass movement that does not start as a one-man movement.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Jan. 25 — The men and women who daily defy death during summer months at county fairs, street carnivals and the circus usually winter in Gotham. They are as a rule strange diffident people who despite their intrepid stunts suffer from a sense of inferiority.

Most of them have the personality of a burnt match. They do not hesitate a flickering second to plunge 200 feet downward from a ladder top into a four-foot square shallow pool, yet among strangers they are as shy as deer and as dumb as oysters.

Unlike most "piff-awmers" they never talk of their rash didoes. And it may be this repression is responsible for the daily risking of necks before gawking crowds. They are birds of a feather flocking together—mostly along jostling Tenth avenue.

Once in awhile they miss the net or tank or a wire snaps and they are hurtled to permanent invalidism. Such victims are rarely left to the mercies of public charities. There is a saying under the big tops: "The circus takes care of its own." It does.

And this applies to various branches of the industry—even to the lowly medicine show from the tail end of a banjo torched cart. Performers of this sort are rarely found in almshouses. Funds are always on hand to care for them.

Most professional dare-devils are thrifty. Their season at best is about four months yet they manage to save enough to butter over the lean long days "at liberty." It is also of interest that the majority come from farms.

As farm hands their muscles were whipped into sinews of steel and regularity of living in the open attuned their nerves to the hazards of facing daily disaster. They seem perfectly satisfied with the small applause and slight rewards that are theirs.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

You've probably heard about the old-fashioned aeroplanes that they have parked out on some of these government aviation fields. The planes was made before the war, and they've got a pre-war kick in them. Sometimes they kick over the traces and make a bad spill, and then the newspapers has a big story. But generally the army men manage to make the things fly, and sometimes they even train a reserve with one of them.

I was told not long ago about a young cuss that was trying to be an aviator at one of these flying fields that hasn't got any wings to speak of, and the officers had done the best they could with what they had on hand. Finally it was time for the young guy to fly the plane all by himself, and he went up, with an instructor in the seat behind him. There was a real strong wind blowing from the southeast, and the officer told the guy to head right into it and in four hours he would be in Mexico City, where he was expected by the Mexican government. Well, the boy drove the old boat as hard as he could, but the wind was mighty strong and the engine of that old relic was mighty weak, and when he come down at the end of six hours he landed right on the same field he took off from. When he saw the soldiers coming over towards his plane, he says to the instruction officer:

"Well, it's darn nice of the Mexicans to have these here American soldiers here to welcome us, ain't it, captain?"—Copyright, 1927.

NEW CRISIS IN RELATIONS IS HORIZON CLOUD

Cancellation of Drilling Permits in Mexico Has Echo in Washington

Mexico City, Jan. 25—A new crisis in the relations of Mexico and the United States was seen here today in dispatches from Washington revealing that the state department considers as serious the situation created by the Mexican government's action in canceling drilling permits previously granted to American companies for working oil lands held under titles dating prior to 1917.

Considerable concern was caused by word that Washington might consider the cancellations as an "overt act" amounting to confiscation and warranting vigorous action on the part of the American government for the protection of the American interests involved.

Mexican Claims Futile

From the American viewpoint, as revealed here, it is regarded as futile for the Mexican government to claim the American properties have not been confiscated while, simultaneously, the government prevents the holders of rights prior to the framing of the 1917 constitution from taking oil from the grounds covered by these rights.

Both the American embassy here and the Washington state department are said to be keeping in close touch with all developments, with a view to taking such action as is considered necessary for conserving the interests of American owners of property in Mexico.

PREDICT PASSAGE OF ROBINSON RESOLUTION

Washington, Jan. 25—Passage of the Robinson resolution, putting the senate on record in favor of arbitration of the land-law controversy with Mexico, was predicted by its backers today in the face of state department hints that Mexico already has committed "overt acts" in the application of the laws.

Cancellation of oil drilling permits by the Mexican government to those corporations which have not complied with the registration laws was construed by the state department as the beginning of the "confiscation" which it alleges is embodied in the new laws. The department, however, did not indicate what action, if any, is to follow on the part of this government.

BROTHERS ENGAGED IN BOUT AS POLICE ARRIVE

Doyle and Kenneth Garns Arrested During Lively Battle of Fists

Brotherly love between Doyle Garns, 18, and Kenneth Garns, 20, of 554 Henry-st, vanished completely when they became engaged in an argument in the up-town district, about 6:30 last night and retired to a secluded spot at the rear of the Woolworth store on W. Center-st to settle the dispute with their fists.

That is the story related by police officers, who report that they found the Garns boys in the preliminary stages of a fistic debate. The battle was halted before either of the brothers had been seriously damaged and both were placed under arrest on a disorderly conduct charge.

Today the boys pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge Martin and their hearings were set for 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. They are held at the city prison awaiting trial.

CONFESSED WIFE SLAYER MAINTAINS HAPPY MOOD

Chats with Guard Constanty While Officers Await Arrival of Warrant

Mauston, Wis., Jan. 25—While William N. Coffey, salesman-reformer, chatted almost gaily with his constant guard, authorities here today awaited a warrant from Dubuque County, Iowa, charging him formally with the murder of his bigamous wife.

Sufficient evidence to justify the warrant was believed to be in hand with the reported discovery of fragments of an indoor baseball bat. Coffey has confessed that with such a club he killed Mrs. Harrie Hales, wealthy 55-year-old widow.

Coffey's manifestation of cheerfulness, in the meantime, has not lessened the vigilance of the guard kept over him. District Attorney Robert Clark, awaiting the warrant and anxious to be rid his prisoner, fears reaction upon Coffey which might cause him to seek his own life. The bigamist has revealed that with lesser provocation in times past he has attempted to kill himself.

After Murder Warrant

With the identification of photographs of Coffey and the slain widow by the caretaker at a Dubuque tourist's camp, District Attorney Allen Kane of Dubuque County notified authorities here that he has filed an information for a first degree murder warrant and that it would probably be issued today.

Coffey confessed yesterday that he slew Mrs. Hales on the morning of Oct. 13 and tossed her body into the river from the bridge linking Dubuque and Lancaster.

Officials on both sides of the Mississippi informed authorities here that search for the woman's body was to be in progress throughout the day. Three feet of ice and forty feet of water must be combed, the state line officers said. Before there can be any hope of establishing the corpus delicti, without which Coffey's unsupported confession may not be effective.

CITY ENGINEER SUBMITS TENTATIVE PAVING RATES

Assessment Figures Approved by City Council; Authorizes Sewer Work

Tentative rates for assessments to be levied to cover property owners' shares of the cost of two street pavings and two sewers to be constructed this year were submitted to City Council last night by City Engineer T. S. Cathers. The engineer's communication was approved and the notices to property owners, listing the proposed assessments, were ordered published.

An assessment of $2.78 against each front foot of property is provided for resurfacing of Columbia-st between Davids and High sts and $2.34 for resurfacing Blaine-av from Center-st to Church-st.

The rate for a sewer to be laid in Kensington-pl between Church-st and Indiana-av is $1.56 and for a sewer in Chambers-st from its southern terminus to Keener-av is $1.58.

To Publish Notices

Notice of the tentative assessments is to be published in order to give property owners a chance to file objections or complaints. After three weeks have elapsed, council will proceed with final legislation preliminary to awarding of the construction contracts. Should actual cost of the improvements differ from the engineer's estimates, the assessments will be adjusted accordingly.

Authorizes Sewer

Council also adopted a resolution authorizing construction of sanitary and storm water sewers on Bellefontaine-av from Barks-st to Glendale-av, Glendale from Bellefontaine-av to Lot No. 12,747, Chatfield-rd from Bellefontaine-av to lot No. 12,762 and Maynard-av from Chatfield-rd to Sheridan-rd. These streets are located in the Oakland Heights addition and construction of a number of new homes will follow installation of the sewers, it has been announced.

An ordinance to proceed with construction of a sewer on Fahey-st from Silver-st to lots 5370 and 5380 was adopted and the city solicitor was instructed to prepare legislation necessary for installation of a street light at the west end of Thew-av.

PETITIONS IN GAS RATE FIGHT ARE THROWN OUT

Objections to Property Valuation Reach Commission Too Late for Consideration

Kenton, Jan. 25—That Kenton's new gas rate will in all probability be based upon the valuation of $182,102.03 placed by the state utilities commission upon the properties of the West Ohio Gas Company here, was the information received by officials from the commission.

The protests of the City of Kenton and the West Side Ohio Gas Company of Lima, filed late last week against the tentative valuation placed by engineers from the commission on the gas properties here, have been thrown out by the commission on the grounds that they arrived too late for consideration.

The tentative valuation fixed by the state body is considerably less than the valuation upon which the former $1.07 flat rate was based. The gas company's proposed schedule of rates which it is now collecting under bond, asks for $1.25 for the 400-cu. ft. of gas used with a sliding scale downward.

In dismissing the two protests the state body held that they failed to reach the commission offices within the 30 day period allowed by law following the filing of the tentative valuation by the commission for rate making purposes.

Living

GO-GET-IT!

Loving

THERE are a lot of truths we're never been told that we learn fast by reading between the lines of letters. For instance:—

Sally is young. Sally is pretty. Sally is the apple of the parental eye. But over and above all things, Sally is tremendously ambitious. There isn't a bit of doubt about it. Yet all that Sally's mother really put down in black and white in her letter to us is as follows:—

"My daughter has left home to follow a career in New York, and I am so unhappy. Not that I worry as to what may happen to her. Sally can take care of herself, I guess. But I can't understand what made her want to go away from her father and me, who love her so dearly. She could have had her career right her in this town if only she had stayed! For three years she has been taking singing lessons from the best teacher we could afford, and last winter she got a position as soloist in our church choir, and she was doing well. Every one who heard her praised her voice. Father and I were so proud. We thought we were doing everything possible for her, and that she was content until one night she flung herself into my arms and cried that she couldn't stand this 'small town stuff' a moment longer and would die if she couldn't go where there was opportunity, where folks would better appreciate her talent. There isn't any use in trying to hang onto a person who doesn't want to be hung onto, not even when it's your own daughter; so we had to let her go. I want her to be happy. But all I can think of right now is that Sally will never be home again to stay—only on short visits. Father and I will have to grow old without her. If only I could understand why success means so much more to her than our love."

"IF only I could understand!" Universal plaint of mothers the land over who find themselves forced to endure the aching, heartbreaking loneliness of separation from their "bairns." The accepted order of things with their sons. But now their daughters—

Every lunatic owns to its absent Sallys. And we're afraid there is nothing for mothers to do but to make up their minds that sex no longer determines the fortune hunter, but that girl as well as boy will claim the right to flight from the familiarly safe roost to test the strength of her wings against the strange, shifting winds of chance.

JUST what is it that urges youth to sacrifice affection, friends, home comforts, the simple familiar joys of living, for the apt-to-be-doubtful happiness of a more complex existence? Do they really think that so transient a thing as fame, so fickle a thing as fortune, is worth the price they must pay for them?

We believe it is the urge to do something, to get somewhere, to express themselves in the manner, however unique, yet peculiarly their own, as their fathers and mothers never could or would, that relentlessly drives them.

Youth today is keenly alive to every opportunity. "Go-get-it!" is the spirit of the age.

When a woman marries she not only takes a man's name but everything else he has.

Few want to divide their money with their brethren if they haven't got much to divide.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Rev. Frederick Cromer, Upper Sandusky, Preaches Sermon

Rev. Frederick Cromer of Upper Sandusky conducted revival services at Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church for the second time last night, preaching from the text, "As the Father hath loved me so have I loved you, continue ye in My love."

Mrs. Edward Webb sang a special vocal number after which Captain William Killoch of the local Salvation Army Post, played two cornet solos.

Mrs. W. B. Long has arranged a special solo number for the service at 7:30 o'clock tonight. According to Rev. A. W. Swan, pastor of the church, the remarkable attendance at the service as well as the many conversions, designate an "unusually sustained interest in the revival."

INTEREST IN SERVICES AT MISSION GROWING

Revival services at the Bennett Street Nazarene Mission are growing in interest and attendance with each night's meeting it was announced today by Rev. James Belin, who with Rev. Otto Grace is conducting the services. Up to date a total of 23 persons have been received at the altar. Music, in charge of R. W. Hayes, add an interesting feature to the meetings and contributes in no small measure to the enthusiasm of the congregation.

Services will be held each night this week at 7:30 o' clock, except Saturday night. Special services will mark the meetings next Sunday. Attendance at Sunday School last Sunday reached the mark of 100, it was announced.

FOR Acid Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

BETTER THAN SODA

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

TRY A 25c BOTTLE

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"And who, pray, is poor little Oku? I get confused with all these Japanese."

"That's what's so funny about the Japanese," she said. "There always are such lots of them."

"Oku, I suppose, was the man who was knocked off his motor bicycle in the Rue de Lausanne yesterday?"

"Then you know all about it?" she exclaimed.

"It was in the papers," I replied.

"Of course. I was forgetting the papers. Yes, that was Oku. I am told there is small chance of his recovery. But I am afraid it was bound to happen. He always would drive so very fast, which isn't at all sensible— at least not in traffic. However, perhaps it is just as well. Oku would probably have failed to find the handkerchief while he was able to find it without any difficulty at all. The Center will be pleased with you."

She continued pleasantly in this reincommenting on the events of the last twenty-four hours in a spirit of banter so light and ingenuous that I could only with difficulty realize, as she talked, that the facts to which she referred were matters of life and death, and that the business in which she was so merrily engaged was a vile and abominable traffic criminally pursued. It was incredible and yet indisputable that she could actually realize the implications of her story. She talked as though she were taking part in rather a jolly game in which she was doing so well for the moment that she could afford to chaff good-naturedly a less lucky antagonist.

I did not know in the least where I was going, having but little knowledge of the country. We were at the moment in France, running so far as I could judge parallel to the Swiss frontier and not more than a mile away from it. Evidently the gang had another headquarters. They could hardly be taking me to Count Emileos castle, as they must know of our interview with the police and expect to be raided there.

My speculations were suddenly interrupted by my companion, who laid her hand impulsively on my arm.

"Look," she cried, "there are two golden orioles. Aren't they exquisite? I just adore birds."

She was quite frankly lost in admiration of the birds as they flew, the sun flashing from their wings. Yet this was the confederate of Marce. My face must have expressed my thoughts, for, looking at my astonished face, she burst out laughing.

"Your dear simple man," she protested. "Why shouldn't I admire the beauties of nature, even though I am, as you would say, a criminal? Don't you remember Gilbert?"

"When the enterprising burglar's not a burgling,
When the cut-throat isn't occupied in crime,
He loves to hear the little brook a-gurgling,
And listen to the happy village chime."

Her ditty ended, she smiled at me and turned her gaze back to the landscape, her eyes shining with enthusiasm.

"Look," she cried, "at the blue line of the Jura and the white line of the Alps, and the plain between with its trees and grass and funny little house."

"I don't much care for this mountain scenery myself," I said shortly. "I find it rather depressing."

My companion refused to be snubbed. "That's only because you are not used to it," she protested. "There is nothing finer in the world than big mountains."

She lay back, her eyes closed, as though recalling a remembered beauty. I stared at her and a feeling of unwilling admiration came over me. She looked a complete child, the light playing on her clear brown skin, not beautiful, but alive with a youth and vitality which had the effect of spring sunshine. She might have served as an inspiration for Blake's "Age of Innocence."

This impression of my companion was destined, however, to be rudely shaken.

The car, which ad been traveling at a brisk pace, swung suddenly to the right and, at a word from Baldassare, slowed down. The girl beside me turned to the Japanese and said a single sharp sentence in what was presumably his native tongue. He swung round immediately and gripped my arms by the elbow, and to my sudden horror, I felt a prick in my left wrist and saw that the girl was pushing home the plunger of a hypodermic needle.

I looked at her with I know not what expression of hopeless anger and amazement. The brutality of her attack, following without transition upon her idyllic mood of the previous instant, was so utterly inconsequent that for the moment I was incapable of thought.

She looked at me not in the least abashed or out of countenance. In fact, she burst out laughing. Amused, I suppose, by the blankness of my expression.

I am uncertain what drug they used, though it was probably a pretty powerful blend of Tyoscine and morphea. But, almost before she had withdrawn the needle, a pleasant langnor spread over me. The laughing faces of my companion wavered and retreated. My scalp and the soles of my feet began to tingle. The sense of langnor deepened rapidly and, through the mist which gathered before my eyes, I dimly perceived that the car had stopped and the figures of officials were coming toward us. This, then, was the frontier. My last impression as I sank into complete unconsciousness was that the girl had taken me by the hand and that she was saying, in a voice that seemed to come from a great distance:

"You are supposed to be very ill, you know, and we are taking you to a sanatorium. You are my patient, and you must go to sleep."

After that everything was blotted out, and I fell into a deep silence.

When I came to myself again I found we were still in the car and that some one had thrown a rug over me. We were climbing a long road bordered with pines, with every now and then a glimpse of some snow mountain away to the north. The air was full of the scent of pine needles and the sound of chattering birds.

"Ah, Mr. Quexter, you are awake", said a voice by my side.

I sat up stupidly and rubbed my eyes. I still felt very sleepy but otherwise seemed to be suffering no ill effects from the dope. Broad-backed Marce was still on the front seat, and the little Japanese still in front of me.

"I am sorry," continued the girl, "that we had to put you under, and I may have given you a little too much, but you might have said something inconvenient at the frontier. As it was, the officials were charming—so obliging and sympathetic. One of them hoped that you would soon recover."

"You are certainly taking great care of me," I rejoined. "I fail, however, to see why it should be necessary. You have got the handkerchief. What more do you want?"

She looked at me softly and, feel that I was, I could not help being strangely stirred.

"I should be sorry to lose you, Mr. Quexter, at least till we are better acquainted. And orders are orders. The Center was most explicit. He thinks, apparently that you know too much. After the fifteenth it may be different."

"What is to happen on the fifteenth?" I asked.

"You shouldn't be so inquisitive. The less you know about us, my friend, the better it will be."

I sat back in silent exasperation. There was literally nothing I could do. I did not even know where we were except that, having passed the frontier, we were again in Switzerland. I had no means of communicating with Claypole, and there seemed small chance of escape. My only source of satisfaction was the thought that they did not yet hold all the cards. In a few hours Claypole would receive the handkerchief which I had posted at Ferney and perhaps be able to solve its riddle. I wondered how long it would take the Center to discover the substitution and what he would say to me when the truth was known.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

"I CAN see the foundation for your bunch," I said to Lillian as she outlined to me the premises for her exploded theory that Mary Harrison was the mysterious masked dancer at the night club. "But how did you figure that the child got out of the house every night without our seeing her?"

"I am ashamed to tell you the outlandish theory I had," Lillian said with a wry grin, "now that we've both had proof to-night that she couldn't be the dancer, but don't you remember Katherine's weird tale of seeing Mrs. Baker limp out of the house each night at eleven and return at two? You remember she said the woman was so muffled that she could see nothing of her but her thick-lensed eyeglasses and a bit of her gray hair. Knowing the Baker pest had been so chummy with Mary that it made you uneasy, I wondered if the muffled figure might not be Mary disguised to resemble Mrs. Baker. A gray wig is easy enough to procure, you know, and you never went in Mary's room between those hours, did you?"

I shook my head in bewildered negation, for her fantastic deductions had been too much for me.

"So you see," Lillian went on, "it was entirely possible for her to have been away from the house during that time."

"I can see your whole premise now," I sat dexcitely. "The masked dancer was absent last night for the first time. It was announced that she had been taken ill. Dicky heard Jack Leslie say to Noel Vertizen that a woman friend of the dancer brought the news of her illness, and I myself saw Mrs. Baker talking to Jack Leslie as we entered the night club, and heard him angrily call her to account for not letting him know something sooner. How it all fits in! No wonder you thought what you did."

"More than that fitted in to my imagination," Lillian said ruefully, "and I certainly worked the poor thing overtime. I didn't even give Jack Leslie credit for his palpable good taste"—she threw me a mischievous kiss—"in asking you to dance. I thought he was making it the camouflage for the questions concerning Mary which would lead you to think he had not seen her for a long time."

"I am sure you are right on that score," I said, "even though your theory about her being the dancer has been exploded. He was trying to mislead me, and I am afraid it is because Mary has seen a good deal of him in spite of all our precautions."

"I imagine so," Lillian assented, "and that's a problem you'll probably have on your hands until we can devise some means of having Jack Leslie slaughtered. I confess I'd relish stimpsing that lily-fingered lad before the mast."

I laughed at her ferocity, and she paused for a reluctant grin before she went on.

"Right there, I laid my plan for to-night," she said, "and as the first step I asked you to take me to Mary's room last night so that I could satisfy myself that she was in her bed. Today the one-armed paper-hanger with the mosquito bites has been a person of leisure compared to me. I've run down every clue I could find to the identity of the masked dancer, and every one of them seemed to point to Mary."

It promptly loosens the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Shovels Are Not After City Cage Championship, Declares Manager Bacon

Editor's Note: The following article was written by Francis W. Bacon, manager of the Marion Steam Shovel basketball team. Mr. Bacon gives his ideas on the proposed series of games between Isaly Dairies and the Shovels and replies to statements made a few days ago by Manager Marion Hinklin of the Dairies in an interview with the sports editor of the Star.

BY FRANCIS W. BACON

FOR the past fifteen or more years I have followed and actively participated in amateur, college and professional sports and this is the first time I have ever encountered a condition where a self-appointed dictator lays down requirements for an opponent to use a crippled team.

Ordinarily, a contract for a game is made with the requirement that first string players must appear for the game rather than a crippled or second string aggregation. Hinklin may require the teams he plays lease out their best men but we won't submit to being a set up, and why should we?

Not After Title

We aren't after the championship of Marion. A local championship should be conceded to the best industrial or fraternal team of the city providing the team is composed of members of the organization under whose name they play. How many of the Isaly team work for the Isaly Dairy Company? They are a team composed of the best local men who will play, picked from all over the city. Surely they should be able to win over the K. of C. team, the Railway Service, C., D. & M., and others who use members of their own organizations.

The teams playing in the Industrial League of Marion and other similarly organized clubs are the ones to participate in a city championship. We aren't organized for that purpose and are not, therefore, interested in this kind of a series of games. Our ambitions are to claim the industrial championship of Ohio and in this way advertise The Marion Steam Shovel Company and the city of Marion all over the country. If the Isaly team wishes to include themselves as contenders for the industrial championship of Ohio, then it is ridiculous for their manager to attempt to dictate who shall play, etc., on the opposing teams.

We don't confine our line-up to local men simply because practically no other similar team does. They are all composed of professional and semi-professional players whose strength depends upon thefollowing they have. Ours is no different, and we don't propose to weaken our team to become a set-up if it can be avoided. If Hinklin's team is good enough to play the Rosenbaum first stringers why should they object to our using the best team we can get together? Apparently he isn't very confident in his team.

From our standpoint it doesn't matter one bit whether or not they use a "loaded" team, because we don't want any set-ups. Our object is to give the fans the very BEST within our power and we believe we have afforded Marion fans some high grade basketball at an admission price that makes visiting teams wonder how we do it.

Marion Fans Want Games

There is no question but what Marion basketball fans want to see a Steam Shovel-Isaly series and this is the only reason we are interested in playing Isaly. We have nothing to gain from the matches as we aren't interested in a local championship. We believe we can beat Isaly and we are willing to try at any time agreeable to them. If Hinklin wants to find a reason for not playing us when the fans demand the match, then that's up to him. He's managing his team and can do whatever suits him best.

As for the matter of playing under professional or college rules, what basis has Hinklin for dictating college rules? Professional rules are conceded by most followers of the sport to give the game more interest and action. Even college teams who are not permitted to play under profession rules, almost invariably follow these rules with the single exception of disqualifying a player after he has committed four personal fouls. The only time that we, or practically any other pro or semi-pro club, attempt to play under college rules is when playing a college team and I don't understand why we should be asked to play under college rules against Isaly. As soon as a reasonable and satisfactory reason can be given for using college rules we shall gladly consider it but until then, we propose to stick to common practice.

First Game Question

Another thing which seems to be a bone of contention, where should the first game be played? We dont' ask any favors nor do we expect to grant any. The first game will be played on the Isaly home floor or on the Steam Shovel home floor, depending upon which team wins the toss-up. All sports have for years and years been conducted in this way and again we intend adhering to common practice.

Why should we play on a strange floor merely because our opposing manager thinks it the proper place? That is too much to ask altogether. We have higher ceilings, four tier bleachers, a large dressing room, shower baths and other things that make our home equal, if not superior, in every respect, to the Isaly home floor and we can accommodate as large, if not a larger crowd in an equally satisfactory manner. As far as we are concerned some fair and square manner should determine where the first game shall be held.

Summing the whole thing up we will play Isaly, not for the city championship but because the fans want the game, and we shall use whatever players we find expedient regardless of backers. We shall play under professional rules and not college rules, girls' rules, amateur rules or any other unless some satisfactory reason can be given for doing otherwise. We shall play on the home floor of the team that fairly and squarely wins the decision based on some recognized manner for deciding these things.

If my ethics, reasoning and logic is wrong, I'm willing to listen to something better but at any rate I'm confident the Steam Shovel team can win anywhere, anytime and on any floor without laying down a set of ungreecedented conditions.

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

THE fates were unkind to Babe Ruth in 1925, when he suffered from indigestion, failed to get his usual allotment of base hits and home runs and wound up in a rumpus with Manager Miller Huggins that cost him $5,000.

Now the fates are smiling on the Bambino, whose contract with the Yankees has expired and who seeks a substantial increase in salary. When the time comes for Ruth to talk business with Col. Jacob Ruppert, he will be armed with these powerful arguments:

His record for 1926, when he established himself as the greatest of home run hitters, finished third in batting in the American league, helped tremendously to win the pennant and all but won the world series.

The acquisition of Rogers Hornsby by the Giants, which provides a counter attraction, at the Polo grounds.

BAREFOOTED football players were the most interesting sight Knute Rockne saw during a short visit to the Hawaiian Islands, the veteran Notre Dame coach confessed upon his return to this country.

"It seems incredible," Rockne says, "but those barefooted boys over in Hawaii would punt 50 yards without effort and dropkick the ball 45 yards. Of course, they have gone without shoes all their lives so their feet are toughened, but just the same I think it was the outstanding novelty of my trip to the mid-Pacific islands. Grass skirts weren't in it."

Rockne doubts if football playing in bare feet will ever be popular in the United States.

"It might be done in California, I suppose, if the players trained themselves for it, but in the rest of the country the athletes would freeze their feet off."

The yacht, owned by Robert E. Tod, of New York, has been promised for spring delivery by the builders at Bristol, Conn. A recent announcement from abroad was that the Shamrock would be built for Sir Thomas Lipton's final cup challenge.

Tod's craft is scheduled to race in American waters this season, later sailing to race at Cowes.

The yacht will have an overall length of 11 feet 7 inches. It will be 75 feet at the water line. The extreme beam will be 20 feet and it will have a hollow mast 150 feet long and a canvas area of 7,000 square feet in four working sails.

Three Industrial League Basketball Games Tonight

TO PLAY NINTH ROUND; OSGOODS MEET C., D. & M.

Hubers Clash with Railway Service; Engineers Play Commercials

Hubers and Railway Service cagers will meet in the first contest of the ninth round of the Marion Industrial Basketball League tonight in the Star Auditorium. Fairfield Engineers will battle the strong Commercial outfit and last, but not least, the Osgood crew will take on the C., D. & M. men for a round.

Hubers who have won but one game during the entire league season, are meeting a tough team tonight. But, previous games have shown that Hubers play a better game against a strong opponent than they do against one that is not quite so strong. Just what they will do tonight against the Railway Service aggregation is not known and will not be known until about 8 o'clock tonight, when the game comes to a close.

Engineer-Commercial Tilt

The Fairfield Engineer-Commercial tilt should prove interesting. Fairfields have not been winning consistently but they have been putting up some great fights. Commercials are third in the league standing and were idle last week. In the second game of the season they defeated the Fairfield Engineers by a large margin.

Then comes the most interesting of all the games, the C., D. & M.-Osgood clash.

With the season more than half over, interest of all Industrial League basketball fans has turned to games in which the strong C., D. & M. quintet figures. Every fan, with the exception of the ardent C., D. & M. supporters, is anxiously awaiting the night when the C., D. & M. outfit goes down in defeat.

Not Yet Defeated

The Electricians have not yet been defeated but have won seven games and are well established in first place. They must suffer two defeats within the next six weeks or they win the title. Osgoods have been going strong during the last few weeks and pulled the great surprise about three weeks ago when they defeated the Commercials.

The games tonight will be called at 7:15 with Doc King of Ohio Wesleyan doing the refereeing.

U. S. MEETS THREATS

Football Association Stands Pat On Suggestions

New York, Jan. 25—Threats to have the United States Football Association expelled from the International Federation of Football because of alleged tampering with plays under contract were met here today with official statements that the United States would withdraw from the Federation unless its suggestions were carried out. These included a demand for strict observance of the international code in regard to suspended players and a revision of the contract situation whereby a player will be declared a free agent at the end of each season.

The rule on suspensions calls for a player so penalized to be barred in all countries affiliated with the federation but the code is not observed in this instance, according to Dr. G. Randolph Manning, chairman of United States Association's foreign relations committee. He declared there would be no negotiations carried on with foreign players until after the federation's annual congress at Helsingfors, Finland, when the American demands will be presented.

MILLARD CLOTHIERS NEXT TO FACE STEAM SHOVELS

Noted Springfield Quintet To Come Here Thursday for Game

Millard Clothiers of Springfield, O., will be the next opponents for the Marion Steam Shovel basketball team. The Springfield men will come here Thursday night for a clash with the strong Shovel quintet.

The Clothiers, well-known in the southern part of the state, have one of the best teams in that district. The team is composed of former Ohio State and Wittenberg stars and noted professional players. Millards have made a great record for themselves in contests played at Dayton, Cincinnati, Middletown and cities in Indiana.

It will be the first appearance of a team from the southern part of the state here this year.

The Shovels will have their regular lineup, although it is not certain whether Shea and Shaw will be here. Schwab will play center, Bacon and Compton will perform at guards, and Bobyer and Wilson will play forward, if the two Columbus stars do not come for the game.

The Shovels have defeated some of the best professional teams in the state and eastern part of the country so far this season and are going strong. Four tier bleachers have been erected along both sides of the hall and the Steam Shovel band has been engaged for all the games.

A preliminary event will be played between two teams of the Shovel basketball league and the regular game will start at 8:15 o'clock, Thursday night.

MAY BE SUSPENDED

Atherton And Sayers Stall In 10-Round Match

Chicago, Jan. 25—"Happy" Atherton, Indianapolis flyweight, and Jimmy Sayers of Lafayette, may draw a suspension from the Illinois Boxing Commission, it was predicted today, as a result of their stalling tactics in the ten-round main event last night at White City.

Ballyhooed as "bitter rivals for the flyweight championship of Hoosierdom," Atherton and Sayers were anything but ferocious in the ring after seven rounds of waltzing, and unmoved by the booing of 5,000 fans. Referee Dave Barry stopped the bout and declared "no contest."

After getting their promise to fight, Barry allowed them to continue. The final rounds were better, and Atherton was awarded the decision. But the fans filed out in sour mood.

MYERS DEFENDS TITLE AGAINST JIMMY LYONS

Chicago, Jan. 25—The world's middleweight wrestling crown still graced the brow of Johnny Myers today by virtue of his victory over Jimmy Logas in a championship match here last night. The bout went the limit of two hours. Myers pinned the challenger to the mat in one hour and 32 minutes with a toe hold. Then when th time limit expired the champion was awarded the decision. Three thousand fans attended.

Flattery eases things along, but "sharpery" makes them move faster.

Male Quartet, Band, Fans, to Accompany Indiana Eries Five Here for Isaly Tilt

A male quartet, a 25-piece band, 75 rooters, and a hot basketball team will arrive in Marion late Wednesday afternoon from Huntington, Ind. The Indiana Eries will play Isaly Dairies in the Star Auditorium Wednesday night and are not content with coming all alone.

It will be a great game and splendid entertainment will be furnished between halves and before the contest. The band, which was here a few weeks ago when the Indiana Eries administered a defeat to the Dairies, caused great comment at that time and will again be on hand. The male quartet is a special feature.

The Dairies will be set to avenge the defeat suffered at the hands of the visitors earlier in the season and fully expect to win the game. The Dairies lost the contest while in their slump but last week revealed an entirely different acting floor machine than was seen in operation against the Huntington team. The Isaly team defeated Wilmington College by a large margin.

The Eries are equipped with a lineup of former Purdue and Oberlin stars and can play real basketball. Floyd Baker, former Purdue man, is captain of the five, and showed himself to be no slouch with a basketball during the game here a few weeks ago.

It will be remembered that, no matter how the game was going, the members of the Erie quintet here in the previous game never complained to the referee and took everything good-naturedly. They had a defense that was half way between a five-man crew and a man-for-man exhibition. Their offense was complicated because they had no consistent style of play. But, style or no style, they beat the Dairies and have defeated many other teams this season.

Real Spirit

The band and extra entertainment livens up the festivities and fills the auditorium with the spirit seen at high school games.

A fast preliminary event has been arranged and the stage is set for an interesting evening's entertainment. The main go will get under way at 8:15. The preliminary will begin at 7:15 o'clock.

CENTRAL CHRISTIANS WIN; EPWORTHS ARE DEFEATED

Presbyterians Win First Junior Church League Tilt This Season

Central Christian cagers slipped a notch closer to the league leading First Reforms last night and Presbyterians won their first league game of the season during the fifth round of the Junior Sunday School league games at the Y. M. C. A.

Christians, led by Fetter and Gillis, defeated the Trinity Baptists, 32 to 18, in a fast game, and Presbyterians bumbled Epworth M. E. basketeers, 15 to 11, for their first win.

Pohler, Roush and Casiner made the points that spelled victory for Presbyterians, while Rice on the Epworth team did his best to overcome the lead with three field goals and a free throw.

MICHIGAN AGAIN

Ann Arbor Crew Steps Toward Title By Defeating Gophers

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 25—Michigan continued its triumphal march to another Big Ten basketball title last night with an easy victory over the skidding Minnesota quintet, 32 to 20, on the Yost field house floor before 10,000 fans.

Ernie McCoy, Wolverine center, led his teammates with six field goals and two free throws for 14 counters, while Harrigan and Oosterbaan, with their lightning fast passing and deceptive pivoting fooled the Gophers on every turn.

It was the Wolverines' fifth straight win of the season and Minnesota's sixth straight defeat. The Gophers have not won a conference game. Michigan is the only unbeaten Big Ten team.

BUICKS DEFEAT DUGANS; SMART & WADDELL WIN

Occupants of National League Cellar Position Pull Surprise

Occupants of the cellar position in the National Bowling League last night gave evidence that they did not expect to be in that lowly position all season when the Buicks and Smart & Waddell, tied for last place, won three games each from Dugans and Richmans respectfully.

Marion Buick rollers took three games from Dugans with little trouble and ended with a total of 2235 pins while Dugans had only 2026. Wheeler's 183 mark was the highest point reached by any Buick bowler in a single game while Shriver's 172 points were high for Dugans.

Smart & Waddell hit a total of more than 800 pins in two of the three games which they won from Richmans. Hane rolled 208 in one tilt for Smart & Waddell, and W. Baldauf led Richmans with 180 pins.

JACK WOULD MEET LOMSKI

Los Ageles, Jan. 25—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, is dickering for the contract of Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., middleweight according to rumors prevalent here today. Lomski a leading contender for Mickey Walker's title, defeated Tiger Flowers, former title holder, in a ten-round bout here last week.

Movin' On

ROGER PECKINPAUGH, called the most valuable player to his team in 1925, while with Washington, believes he has a chance at the title the coming year, as a member of the White Sox.

ROGER PECKINPAUGH

He was sent west in a recent deal between the two clubs.

Manager Schalk wants him to steady the infield and plug a gap at short. If Peck does both, what better claim could one lay to the title?

Baseball has played odd tricks with Peckinpaugh. Received his try-out with the Indians in his home town of Cleveland. After three trials they decided they didn't need him in the future and sent him to the Yanks, where he proceeded to play brilliant ball, captain the team, and break into one world's series.

He was accused of fomenting dissension against Huggins and traded to Washington, where he proceeded to help the Senators dethrone the Yanks in 1924 and retain the title the next year.

A few days after he was awarded the most valuable prize in 1925 he booted eight chances in the world's series—which Washington lost to the Pirates.

What has fate in store for him now?

WHAT WILL TY AND TRIS DO, IF EXONERATED?

This Question Now Confronts Majority of Baseball Fans

BY GENE HOFFMAN

Chicago, Jan. 25—With speculative interest in baseball undimmed by the semi-tragic happenings of the past several weeks, fans today were tossing back and forth a new and intriguing question.

What will Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker do if Commissioner Landis restores them to good standing in the ranks of organized baseball?

While there are no facts to warrant a prediction of what action the commissioner will take when he reviews the Cobb-Speaker case later this week, the belief is general that Landis will exonerate the two famous stars.

In that case, it is pointed out, Cobb and Speaker, having "resigned" from their respective clubs, will undoubtedly be free agents and allowed to go where they please.

What will Cobb and Speaker do?

Cobb, who left here last night for his home at Augusta, Ga., let it be known that he does not desire to return to the Detroit club in any connection. Speaker was quoted as saying he would like to remain in Cleveland.

Neither could conceal his joy over the favorable trend events have taken. Both refused to talk about any phase of their predicament until Commissioner Landis has given them the promised hearing. That they would come from that hearing with a clean bill of health, neither seemed to doubt.

It is believed the American League will make every effort, in event of an "acquittal" verdict, to keep these two famous stars within the fold. Cobb and Speaker have contributed much to the success of the American League.

Ban Johnson, who was granted a protracted "leave of absence" as president of the American League because of ill health, remained in seclusion at his home today. He was reported cheerful and in good spirits.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

kinda warm when me and up this morning and when down out of the window by his teeth, and then when I the cows and was in the barn the cow and her dotter with began to rain, so I knew I a wet dog to sleep with and it is not any fun sleeping wet dog.

lunch but Peanuts had got to before I got done milking, and I got up and hung up the milk started to go out of the barn Bag of Tripe had hooked a to the lowest hinge of one of and let the wire lay across the floor and he stood on side of the door with the wire around one of his ankles, and went to walk out he pulled his and lifted the wire off door and I hooked my foot in a belly-slammer out into the dirty water that is always barn door. And before I had the Lost Bag of Tripe had went a header out of the manure the alley and had bumped into Peanutses face and made bleed, and they were rolling over in the alley punching at other with the Lost Bag of Tripe to break away, when I got out of the manure hole, and we passed him back through the manure hole and we were rolling him in the slush in front of the barn door where I had fell. I was lucky that I had kept the milk pail right side up and had set it down when I chased the crook, so the milk was all right except what the dogs had drank, but they didn't hurt what was left, because it is never strained till I get it in the house.

My mother throwed up her hands and screamed when she saw me, but I bet the Lost Bag of Tripe's mother throwed up her breakfast and fainted when she saw him. I had to take my clothes off and throw them downstairs to my mother to wrench out, and I had to wash all over and eat my breakfast wrapped in a bed quilt, whilst my clothes hung over chairbacks almost against the stove. I do not know what the Lost Bag of Tripe told his mother but I bet it was a good one.

My grandfather thought he would wash the ice off the walk while the weather was warm, and while he went around the house to turn on the water Annabelle Lee carried the end of the hose in the house and when the water was turned on it shot my mother while she was looking in the oven. Annabelle Lee was pleased.

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily ing through the woods, went in a way, whether he would upon an adventure, all of a rabbit gentleman came upon box in a clearing. The clear- was a place where there was no few bushes, and Uncle Wig- see the box quite plainly. It as large as his bungalow Waggledig Bungalumpp put to lives in it," answered a Bug who, with his brother wearing a fur coat, was out snowball. "Nobody," said the Bug, "lives in that house. It 't a house."

"What is it, then?" asked Uncle Wig-

Before the Squiggler could answer a from the box called:

Let me out! Oh, please let me out!"

thought you said no one lived here," remarked Uncle Wiggily.

No one really lives there, in a man of speaking," went on the Squiggle "But that box is a trap and Nosie is caught there."

box a trap! Nosie Posie caught How dreadful!" cried the rabbit gentleman. "Who is Nosie Posie?"

We don't know," buzzed the sec- Squiggle Bug, speaking in place of brother. "We got here just as the of the trap box sprang shut, and heard a voice begging to be let out."

And whoever it is, whether a him or her its name is Nosie Posie," went on other Squiggler. "We have been ing to think of a way to let it or to let her out, but we couldn't.

Being that we are so small you said the other Squiggler to Uncle Wiggily.

I see," said the rabbit gentleman. Well, I'll let Nosie Posie out." With Uncle Wiggily took part of a rail from a nearby fence and, putting one end under the edge of the trap door, began to pry it up. As the door slid a snake, stuck out from beneath it.

Better be careful!" cried the Squig- "Snakes like rabbits, Uncle Wig-

I'm not afraid," spoke the bunny. Maybe snakes don't come out in this." So he raised the door higher and then, all of a sudden, out of the box stepped a cute little baby ele- I say a little baby elephant, of course even the smallest baby elephant was much larger than Uncle Wiggily.

Oh, how kind of you to let me out!" exclaimed the baby elephant as he stood near Mr. Longears. "I am Nosie Posie, you know."

I didn't know it until you told me now," said the bunny.

Oh, yes," went on the baby ele- "I am called Nosie because my nose, or nose, is so long, you see," he added. "And I am called Posie because I am so fond of flowers."

How did you get in that box trap?" asked Uncle Wiggily while the Squiggle Bug fluttered their wings beneath their coats very stylish-like.

Why," explained Nosie, "I was going along to get back to the warm place where the circus is staying for the winter, when, all of a sudden I called peanuts. You see, my mother, who is a big elephant, works in a circus," explained the small chap, "so I love peanuts when I smell 'em."

Tell us about the peanuts," suggested one of the Squiggers.

"Oh, yes," went on Nosie Posie. "Well, I smelled peanuts and they were in that box, which I didn't know was a trap. I went in after the peanuts, down slammed the door and I was caught. I'd be there yet if it hadn't been for you, Uncle Wiggily. Thank you, so much!"

"Pray, do not mention it," spoke the bunny politely. "It was a pleasure for me to help you."

"And, here, I think is a chance for me to help you!" suddenly trumpeted Nosie Posie. And it was. For just then the Wuzzie Wolf, who had set the trap to catch Uncle Wiggily, came along and now tried to catch the bunny. But the baby elephant sneezed out his long trunk of a nose and blew a lot of snow in the eyes of the Wolf so the bad chap coughed and sneezed, and while he was doing that Uncle Wiggily hopped home to his bungalow. The baby elephant went back to the circus where his mother was waiting, and the Squigglers went to the movies. So everything was all right. And if the milk bottle pudding will take the postage stamp pie skating with the goldfish, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Pinchie Inchie.

At the First Sign of a Cold

Use This Sugar Laxative

The quickest way to check a cold is to cleanse the bowels. Thousands use Granu-Lax, because it acts pleasantly without stomach upset or griping. Granu-Lax looks and tastes just like granulated sugar. You stir it in milk, coffee, lemonade or water. Or sprinkle it on fruit or cereal.

Children love it on bread and butter. Its action is mild but certain, without griping or nausea. Use it when you feel a cold coming on—it is the most pleasant way to cleanse the system. Costs but a few cents. At all druggists.

TREND OF SPECULATIVE STOCKS IS DOWNWARD

Market Opens with Wide Range of Selling; Only Occasional Rallies

New York, Jan. 25—With the exception of a few of the low-priced speculative stocks whose movements are shrouded in mystery, the trend of stocks was distinctly downward today. A wide range of speculative selling was opened up at the beginning of the session and the occasional rallies only served as a contrast for the extension of the declines of the professional bears.

Not Confined

The movement was not confined to the stock market. Uneasiness over China led to the expectation of definite action by the State Department at Washington, while aftermath of Mexican muddle were not without some extent. Reduction of brokers' borrowings at this time is regarded as an unfavorable factor, since it means liquidation of stocks by those who are believed to have been the constructive side of the market for the time being at least.

Sharp Decline

Rails in the railroad shares were conspicuously disconcerted by the sharp declines in the "old line" investment issues which have formed the rallying ground for many spirited advances in recent weeks. Chesapeake & Ohio's dropped to 154 for a loss of five points and seemed to foreshadow some unfavorable development in the Nickel Plate merger, details of which are expected to be made known this week.

New York Central yielded nearly two points in its decline to 139, while Lehigh Valley dropped three and New Haven returned to the point from which its latest spurt started last Saturday. The Northwestern Rails were comparatively backward a point or two. Western Maryland lost most of its glamor and the stock shrunk to 26, while Wheeling & Lake Erie gyrated quite violently between 50 and 56, with a large volume of sales reported on the way up.

FIRST BILLIARD TOURNEY

The first national billiard tournament in the United States was held in Detroit in 1859. Prizes aggregating $15,000 were in addition to the championship trophy served to attract the foremost cue experts of that day. Michael Phelan of New York City was the winner.

KEENE IS NOT KEENE

Recie Fitzpatrick's right name is not Keene. The noted Princeton trainer was born in Keene, N. H., and when operating professionally was given that name.

GRANTHAM IN SENATE

How do ball players spend the winter? George Grantham, first baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has a job as bookkeeper of the Arizona State senate.

In going about "doing good," it is well to have a misgiving or two on the mischief one may do if he isn't circumspect.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Fresh supplies of shipped vegetables have brought prices of several items down to a lower level in local markets.

Large shipments of fine Florida celery have been received, and celery is selling now for 15 cents a bunch for the large size, and 10 cents a bunch for smaller bunches. Celery is finding a ready sale now, and the turnover is rapid, keeping fresh shipments on hand nearly every day.

Cauliflower is another vegetable that has improved in quality of shipments and has come down in price. The best heads of cauliflower are now retailing for 35 cents to 40 cents a head, with smaller heads ranging down to 30 cents. This is another Florida product that is moving fast.

Home grown cabbage continues to outsell the shipped product, and the price is the same, 5 cents a pound.

Meat products show no change in retail markets. The price of butter is steady, and while the egg market shows prospects of a downward trend the price today was steady.

Man Wants To Eat, Gas Stops Him

"I had gas bloating and was always in misery after eating. Used all kinds of remedies, but got no relief. After taking Adlerika, I was much better, and now I can enjoy a good meal again."—W. Taylor.

Adlerika gives the system a REAL cleansing and brings out old poisons which may have caused trouble for a long time. Unlike most medicines, it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never thought was in your system and which caused sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. Bradley's Drug Store and other druggists.—Adv.

Proposal Made to Increase Gas Tax to Three Cents

ACTION WOULD PLUG DEFICIT IN TREASURY

Auto Clubs of State Expected to Oppose Proposed Boosts

Columbus, Jan. 25—Legislative leaders here today had under consideration the proposal, by former Representative Harry Silver, now assistant state auditor, that an emergency act be passed immediately increasing the state gasoline tax to three cents per gallon. The tax now is two cents. It was estimated that the increase would aid materially in overcoming a deficit in the state treasury by providing additional revenue exceeding $[illegible] annually.

With several score of other legislation increasing corporation franchise and similar taxes, Silver stated, it was believed the threatened treasury deficit could be averted.

In a communication to Senator C. C. Bolton, Cleveland, Republican floor leader, State Auditor Joseph Tracy stated that it was estimated the treasury deficit, by July 1, next, would exceed $9,000,000 and $22,000,000 by Dec. 31, 1928.

Urged To Organize

Activity throughout the state, it was announced here today, are being urged by officials of local auto clubs to organize and oppose all proposed increases in gas and gasoline taxes.

State Director of Education Vernon M. Riegel, appearing before the senate committee on colleges and universities, opposed the [illegible] bill which would create a state [illegible] entrance board, to pass [illegible] graduates rec[illegible] and universities.

Lateral [illegible] Reg Bill. Illegal [illegible] the state department of [illegible] supervising the [illegible] operation of [illegible] schools would be [illegible] by an advisory board consisting of [illegible] of the state universities, Riegel [illegible] favored repeal [illegible] of the Ott Bonnell law which [illegible] that rural school pupils, seeking entrance to high schools, be examined.

Would Cut Truck Trains

It is scheduled to be called up today for second reading and reference to committee include:

In the senate:

By Senator Allen Angler, Huron County, providing that trucks and truck trains shall not exceed 45 feet in length, unless specially authorized by the state director of highways, and that not more than two trucks shall be coupled together as a train. Present law permits truck trains 55 feet long.

By Senator Roy J. Gillen, Jackson County, providing an easier method of procuring a recount of election votes.

In the House:

By Representative K. S. Mardis, Adams County, asking to stimulate the Ohio coal industry by lowering freight rates on coal shipments to and from points within the state. The proposed reductions on intrastate shipments range from 25 per cent on shipments on which present rate is up to, and including $1 per ton down to 5 per cent on shipments on which the existing rate is between $1.75 and $2 per ton. The proposed rates are designed to become effective, Aug. 1, next.

By Representative Harry Ball Scioto County, extending the jurisdiction of the state forester and revising the restrictions on handling fires.

CHANGE IN LICENSING OF PEDDLERS DEFEATED

Councilmen Vote Against Amendment Because of Lack of Information

As a result of confusion [illegible] formed regarding the proposed ordinance of City Council last night [illegible] down an amendment to the local peddlers license ordinance introduced at the request of Mayor Earl M. Hazen.

The Mayor wants peddlers license regulations changed so that he will have authority to issue permits in some cases without charge. There are some persons he states, whose only means of livelihood comes from the peddling of small and inexpensive articles of merchandise and who can not afford to pay a license fee. He believes that no charge should be made by the City in cases of this kind.

The present ordinance requires collection of a fee of from $1 to $50 for each day that the peddler operates. The amendment proposed by the mayor changed this to provide for collection of a license fee "not to exceed $50 a day," thus giving him authority to make no charge should he see fit.

The proposed amendment came up in council without any explanation of its purpose and for that reason was rejected on the final reading, all members voting against it.

The amendment will probably be adopted at the next meeting council members stated following last night's action.

WOULD STOP "COKE"

Cincinnati, Jan. 25—The United States District Court here today has on file a petition of the Coca Cola Co. of Atlanta, Ga., asking that Harry Dyer, Middletown, O., be restrained from further manufacture and sale of a soft drink called "Coke," claiming that it infringed on their trade mark and trade rights.

Marion Presbytery Opens Drive for $52,291, Its Share in Ministers Pension Fund

More Than 60 Representatives Meet at Hotel Harding Dinner To Launch Campaign; Dr. John H. Gross, Philadelphia, Principal Speaker

More than 60 representatives of the Marion Presbytery met last night at Hotel Harding for the purpose of launching the campaign to raise $52,291 as its quota in the $15,000,000 being raised nationally to provide pensions for Presbyterian ministers.

The principal speaker for the meeting was Dr. John H. Gross, D. D. of Philadelphia, treasurer of the Board of Ministerial Relief, who gave an inspirational and informative address on the Pension plan. "We are brought to this plan because we have permitted ministers the salaries they deserve. Men who have given their time, their energies the best years of their lives as soldiers of the cross receive less compensation for their labor than the ditch digger. All these underpaid ministers will be in poverty when they grow old unless the church solves the bitter problem of sustaining its servers by establishing the pension fund."

Paramount Need

"The paramount need for a pension fund lies in the fact that wives of ministers who died in the service at an early age are left in abject poverty. Thus does the pension plan present the church an opportunity to right an old wrong and to place the ministry and church on a sound foundation," he concluded.

Frank M. McMillan of Mt. Gilead, president of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, and president of the Hydraulic Press Co. of Mt. Gilead, gave an interesting talk on which he presented the pension plan from the business man and layman's point of view. Mr. McMillan told a story of the poverty in another of four brothers and himself suffered upon the death of his father, who died in the service of the Presbyterian Church at the early age of 42. "We were saved from the poor house and starvation through the work of the Marion Presbytery in raising money to aid us through the bitterest years. My feeling towards the pension fund is a personal one, I heartily acknowledge it to be the solution of a problem which has been vexing churchmen and women for a number of years."

Explains Plan

Sidney Buttler of New Haven, who has been placed in charge of arrangements for the campaign, then explained the mechanics of the plan, including directions for the laymen of the church and announcement of several dinners which the campaign will include. "The real opening dinner of the campaign will be held at 6 o'clock Feb. 11 at Hotel Harding with all pastors and officials of the campaign in attendance. 'Pension Sunday' will be observed Feb. 13, at which time all pastors will preach on the subject, 'Service Pension Fund,'" he said. Report dinners of all the committees will be held Feb. 18 and Feb. 25 at Hotel Harding and the final report or closing dinner will be held there March 1, it was announced.

Attorney Presides

Judge R. L. Cameron, prominent Marysville attorney, presided as chairman, introducing the speakers after giving a brief discussion of the pension plan in which he said: "The pension plan presents an opportunity for churchmen and women to repay a longstanding debt, to provide compensations for ministers grown old in the service.

Rev. Paul W. Gauss of Bellefontaine, offered the prayer preceding the dinner, after which several songs were sung in unison, with Mrs. Harry T. Williams and Charles Collmer of the First Presbyterian choir, as pianist and leader.

Literature pertaining to the campaign was presented each representative including an organization chart which announced the following officials for the campaign: J. H. DENVER JUVENILE JUDGE TO FIGHT OUSTER MOVE

Ben. B. Lindsey Faces Action Started Against Him by Campaign Opponent

Denver, Jan. 25—Ben B. Lindsey, founder and judge of the Denver Juvenile Court, made the statement today that he would fight the ouster proceedings now in progress against him to the very end. He had been given the usual 15 days in which to file an application for a rehearing.

According to the decision of the Colorado Supreme Court, Lindsey was not rightfully elected in the November election of 1924. The late Royal R. Graham who started the legal action against him was elected, the court decided.

The appointment of a judge to fill the place of Lindsey is in the hands of the board of county commissioners of Denver County. It has been announced by Mrs. Lena M. Bangs, librarian for the Denver Bar Association that no action will be taken by the commissioners until all legal developments have been taken care of.

COUNCIL HEARS COMPLAINT ON SERVICE OF CARS

Refers Petitions Signed by 175 Residents to City Solicitor Geran

Protests filed by residents of the southwest section of Marion against street railway service provided for that locality by the C. D. & M. Electric Railway Co. and requesting that City Council take steps to have the situation remedied have been placed in the hands of City Solicitor George L. Geran.

Petitions signed by about 175 persons living in that part of the city where the street railway service is reported unsatisfactory were received by council at its meeting last night. The petitioners asserted that local cars are held up in order to give interurban cars the right-of-way with the result that patrons of the city lines are not given service required under terms of the C. D. & M. franchise.

Council referred the petitions to City Solicitor Geran and instructed him to confer with officials of the C. D. & M.

Discusses Matter

That the street railway company will strive to maintain a satisfactory schedule on Southeastern Marion was indicated in a statement made by Councilman Charles Schmidt, who said that he had discussed the matter late yesterday afternoon with L. C. Markley, superintendent of the city lines.

Schmidt stated that Macken claims delays have resulted chiefly from cut cars being held up at railway crossings and that this trouble can not be avoided. The C. D. & M. official assured Schmidt however, that the company is still continuing to put forth its best efforts to maintain the street cars on a 14 minute schedule.

ACTION AGAIN DELAYED ON REDISTRICTING PLAN

Postponement Decided Upon To Enable All Persons To File Protests

Final action on the revised ward redistricting plan, expected at last night's meeting of City Council, failed to materialize when the ordinance designating the new ward boundaries was given its second reading and ordered held over until the next council session.

Although the new plan has been formally approved by the Marion Real Estate Board, the organization which took the lead in public protests made against the original ward alignment adopted by council last November, members of council decided to delay action in order that there may be no question about the public being fully satisfied.

Up at Next Session

The ordinance embracing the revised boundary arrangement will come up for a third reading at the next council meeting with probability of passage at that time. It was introduced two weeks ago and while all members of council view the new plan favorably, they agreed that it should not be adopted until ample time had been allowed for the filing of objections.

The ordinance divides the city into six wards to take the place of the present four wards. The change is required by state law, which stipulates that the number of wards in a city shall be based on population.

A communication signed by W. F. Schaffner, secretary of the Marion Real Estate Board, informing council that its new ward plan had been approved by that organization, was received at the meeting last night and placed on file.

MAN WHO TRIED TO MAKE ESCAPE IS ARRAIGNED

Greenville, Jan. 25—Nelson O. Sipes, 18, of Columbus, today was awaiting trial on charges of driving a stolen automobile from Dayton, O., to Indianapolis, Ind. He entered a plea of not guilty to the charge and the trial date was not announced.

Sipes twice attempted to escape after his arrest, and on one occasion brought about serious injuries to Carlson Pratt, federal officer at Dayton, the court was told.

Thinking about his troubles instead of his shoulders makes a man stoop shouldered.

The Hoover Co.

"POSITIVE AGITATION"

A perfected principle in home cleaning science, sponsored by the world's oldest and largest maker of electric cleaners

OLD—old as housekeeping itself; yet new—new as tomorrow morning: this is "Positive Agitation" as embodied in the sensational new Hoover.

Nothing has ever resembled The Greater Hoover. It is new, startling, revolutionary! It far surpasses even the standard-design Hoover in these particulars:

1 For the first time, it makes possible "Positive Agitation" of floor coverings.
2 By actual test, in the ordinary cleaning time, it beats out and sweeps up from carpetings an average of 131% more dirt.
3 It is an even greater rug-saver; the oftener a carpet is cleaned with a Hoover the longer that carpet will wear.
4 It is virtually service-proof; every part, including the new motor, requiring no oiling.
5 It increases the efficiency of its remarkable dusting tools because of its 50% stronger suction.
6 Its exclusive dust- and germ-proof bag is now washable.
7 Its form and finish are of startling beauty; and every new feature insures greater operating ease.

You owe it to yourself to see and understand this new Hoover, now being exhibited by us. Come in today or phone us and we'll bring one to your home for a free demonstration. No obligation.
